The Red Scare, Politics, and the Federal Communications Commission, 1941-1960 Susan L. Brinson, 2004-05-30 The Red Scare at the FCC started when James Lawrence Fly led the agency in many important decisions that were inspired by the New Deal These decisions outraged both the broadcasting industry and politically conservative legislators causing them to accuse the FCC of Communist sympathies This book analyzes the political transition taken by the FCC that turned it into an agency that fully participated in the Red Scare of the 1950s This book analyzes many significant FCC cases and policies that have never been considered within the context of New Deal policymaking or its impact This work is the first to look into the impact of the Red Scare on an executive agency Its combination of new archival and behind the scenes information makes this book a great addition to the growing body of research on media history and regulation Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications United States. Superintendent of Documents, 1991 Texas State Journal of Medicine, 1916 Organization of Congress United States. Congress. Joint Committee on the Organization of Congress, 1945

Congressional Record United States. Congress, 1984 The Congressional Record is the official record of the proceedings and debates of the United States Congress It is published daily when Congress is in session The Congressional Record began publication in 1873 Debates for sessions prior to 1873 are recorded in The Debates and Proceedings in the Congress of the United States 1789 1824 the Register of Debates in Congress 1824 1837 and the Congressional Globe 1833 1873 Journal of the House of Representatives of the United States United States. Congress. House, 1957 Some vols include supplemental journals of such proceedings of the sessions as during the time they were depending were ordered to be kept secret and respecting which the injunction of secrecy was afterwards taken off by the order of the House United States Government Publications Monthly Catalog, 1946 J. Edgar Hoover Goes to the Movies John Sbardellati, 2012-05-15 Between 1942 and 1958 J Edgar Hoover s Federal Bureau of Investigation conducted a sweeping and sustained investigation of the motion picture industry to expose Hollywood s alleged subversion of the American Way through its depiction of social problems class differences and alternative political ideologies FBI informants their names still redacted today reported to Hoover s G men on screenplays and screenings of such films as Frank Capra s It s a Wonderful Life 1946 noting that this picture deliberately maligned the upper class attempting to show that people who had money were mean and despicable characters The FBI s anxiety over this film was not unique it extended to a wide range of popular and critical successes including The Grapes of Wrath 1940 The Best Years of Our Lives 1946 Crossfire 1947 and On the Waterfront 1954 In J Edgar Hoover Goes to the Movies John Sbardellati provides a new consideration of Hollywood s history and the post World War II Red Scare In addition to governmental intrusion into the creative process he details the efforts of left wing filmmakers to use the medium to bring social problems to light and the campaigns of their colleagues on the political right through such organizations as the Motion Picture Alliance for the Preservation of American Ideals to prevent dissemination of un American ideas and beliefs Sbardellati argues that the attack on Hollywood drew its motivation from a sincerely held fear that film content endangered national security by fostering a culture that would be at best apathetic to the Cold War struggle or at its worst conducive to communism at home Those who took part in Hollywood s Cold War struggle whether on the left or right shared one common trait a belief that the movies could serve as engines for social change This strongly held assumption explains why the stakes were so high and ultimately why Hollywood became one of the most important ideological battlegrounds of the Cold War
