The Greening Of Africa Breaking Through In The Battle For Land And Food:

The Greening of Africa Paul Harrison, 1996 There have been worrying trends in Africa in the degradation of the environment which is likely to have negative implications for curing famine poverty and financial crises Published for the first time in Africa this second edition sets the scene for emerging technologies and approaches likely to work in Africa Appropriate approaches to food policy in particular are advocated The first part of the book enumerates the challenges The second part sets out the various responses and part three examines the lessons of the past Information is given on local and grassroots initiatives towards involvement in environmental revolution for improved food production in Africa Africa in

Crisis Lloyd Timberlake, 2013-11-05 The first edition of this incisive text on the problems of drought and famine facing Africa won worldwide critical acclaim Revised with a new introduction Lloyd Timberlake's bestselling study is invaluable reading for anyone interested in Africa Enhancing Agriculture in Africa United States. Congress. Office of Technology

Assessment, 1987 Developing The Environment C Barrow, 2014-09-19 This book presents a comprehensive overview of global environmental problems past present and future examining their roots and implications and suggesting where possible ways in which they might be mitigated or avoided by careful management Sustainable Forestry Challenges for Developing Countries Matti Palo, G. Mery, 2012-12-06 This book is an outcome of a research project on Sustainable Forestry and the Environment in Developing Countries The project has been run by Metsantutki muslaitos METLA the Finnish Forest Research Institute since 1987 and will be completed this year A major output by this project has so far been a report in three volumes on Deforestation or development in the Third World The purpose of our multidisciplinary research project is to generate new knowledge about the causes of deforestation its scenarios and consequences More knowledge is needed for more effective efficient and equitable public policy both at the national and international levels in supporting sustainable forestry in developing countries Our project has specifically focused on 90 tropical countries as one group and on three subgroups by continents as well as the three case study countries the Philippines Ethiopia and Chile The University of Joensuu has been our active partner in the Philippine study We have complemented the three cases by the analyses of Brazil and Indonesia the two largest tropical forest owning countries Some other interesting country studies were annexed to complement our book both by geography and expertise The United Nations University World Institute for Development Economics Research UNU-WIDER in Helsinki Finland has also been partly engaged Most of the results from its project on The Forest in the South and North in Context of Global Warming will however be published later in a separate book

Christianity and Genocide in Rwanda Timothy Longman, 2010 This book studies the role of Christian churches in the 1994 Rwandan genocide Timothy Longman's research shows that Rwandan churches have consistently allied themselves with the state and engaged in ethnic politics making them a center of struggle over power and resources He argues that the genocide in Rwanda was a conservative response to progressive forces that were attempting to democratize Christian churches      Rebuilding the Local Landscape Chris Howorth, 2019-01-04 First published in 1999 this volume emerged in the context of a recent willingness to understand what Africa's peasant farmers are designing and building in their local landscapes in contrast to the meta narratives which were relatively distant from the lives and livelihoods of Africans Based on author Chris Howorth's fieldwork as a UNAIDS technical assistant this book combines academic rigour with a commitment to participatory development action and encourages interaction between universities and field agencies for understanding the landscape The first part of the book explores the efficiency of peasant modes of production This is followed by culturally locating production patterns along with three village case studies in the province of Sissili Lon Boutiourou and Sabou Building on ecological and farming systems research in these three villages Howorth examines the case in Burkina Faso analysing environmental land management strategies      Re-distribution from Above Karuti Kanyinga, 2000 Using empirical evidence from the coastal district of Kenya an area with a long history of private land ownership this report challenges the key assumptions of the proponents of land individualization The author points to the many dysfunctions associated with land privatization and reinforces the growing critique that customary land tenure is far more complex and flexible than its critics are prepared to concede      What Works? D. Scott Slocombe, 1993      Revolutions in Development Inquiry Robert Chambers, 2012-05-04 Robert Chambers draws together and reviews the revolutionary changes in the methodologies and methods of development inquiry that have occurred and reflects on their transformative potential for the future      Reformism and Revisionism in Africa's Political Economy in the 1990s T. Shaw, 1993-02-09 This timely text reevaluates the contemporary political economy of Africa in the light of continuing economic and ecological crises changing perceptions and prescriptions and transformations in global economic and strategic relations It treats hitherto overlooked issues such as gender and informal sectors and examines proliferating conditionalities such as democratic structures and military expenditures It suggests that established perspectives need to be superseded by revisionist approaches and it anticipates disappointment with current structural adjustment programmes advocating instead a return to various forms of self reliance      The Developing World E. Ike Udogu, 2012-10-04 Nation states in the developing world have seen a renaissance in their political social and economic structures Newly industrializing countries like Brazil Mexico China and India are poised to claim the 21st century as their own But economic conditions in many nations of the developing world still leave much to be desired especially with respect to its marginalized citizens whose incomes are often less than two dollars a day Scholars continue to ask what academics political actors economic entrepreneurs and others committed to tackling the bane of underdevelopment in the developing world can do to improve the plight of these nations destitute populations The Developing World Critical Issues in Politics and Society explores the challenges presented by political cultural religious social and economic practices to the future development of these nation states The essays gathered here written by seasoned scholars with deep social political and academic roots in Africa Asia and Latin America explain how improvements in politics

social arrangements and information communication technologies contribute to the effectiveness of emerging nations internal politics and their influence on world affairs Individual essays consider such key issues as how to develop more efficiently the processes of liberal democratization how to apply more uniformly the law enforcement policies of governments to all citizens in a society how the marginalization of women hampers national development how the political development of Mexico as a linguistic regional power has influenced the rest of Central America how development and protection of the environment are linked how an effective application of information communication technologies can enhance the quality of education and boost growth at all levels in a polity This work will interest scholars focused on the developing world social and public policy international politics and social and political theory     Encyclopedia of Government and Politics Mary Hawkesworth, Maurice Kogan, 2002-09-11 Provides a balanced comprehensive account of contemporary trends in world regional and nation state government and politics Captures the global changes both theoretical and factual of the past three decades to give an unprecedented overview of political science and political affairs Clearly and incisively written to meet the needs of students lecturers and practitioners at all levels Helpful bibliographies of new and classic material and suggestions for further reading Extensive index of Topics and People Provides a comprehensive introduction to both the theoretical and practical issues of government and politics It will be an essential purchase for libraries with in depth collections in these areas Reference Reviews This up to date and well executed work provides a sound introduction to all aspects of political study Choice This is a work of immense scholarship and usefulness Political Studies In addition to copious citations to the research literature there are brief bibliographies listing major works for further reading at the conclusion of each article This up to date and well executed work provides a sound introduction to all aspects of political study SUNY College at Purchase

Gender and the Information Revolution in Africa International Development Research Centre (Canada), 2000 Gender and the Information Revolution in Africa     Evolution of Agricultural Services in Sub-Saharan Africa Venkatachalam Venkatesan, Jacob Kampen, 1998-01-01 This paper traces the evolution of World Bank support to agricultural services particularly agricultural extension and research in Sub Saharan Africa It describes the Bank s experience with the implementation of national programs in agricultural extension and research and how these are evolving to face the problems of the future The paper concludes that participation of the beneficiaries in the design and implementation of programs is critical and will ensure the programs convergence towards rural development     Enhancing Agriculture in Africa , 1988

Human Rights and Development in Africa Barongo ba Kafuuzi Ateenyi, 2014-03-27 Africa hosts thirty three of the forty eight least developed countries in the world Half a billion of its people live in abject poverty The continent houses the most illiterate most diseased or disease prone population and the most socioeconomically and politically unstable situations on earth Why Through research the book explores the development challenges afflicting the continent leading to Africa s depressing socioeconomic and political performance in the world It seeks to answer six major questions about the continent

Why has Africa failed to develop despite its vast natural resources Why does it suffer social and political instabilities often resulting in massive deaths population displacements surging poverty disease hunger and starvation Why does Africa suffer chronic dictatorships Why is the continent increasingly afflicted by financial and political corruption What do these situations signify for the continent and what should be done to address the situations For scholars of African studies and development workers on the continent this is a must read The book analyzes human rights and how this affects human growth and development in general but particularly it seeks to appreciate how human rights and development have interacted to affect human development on the African continent It approaches human rights from three major perspectives the concept of human rights the significance of human rights and the contribution of human rights to humanity From Adjustment To Development In Africa Gerald K. Helleiner, 1994-09-22 This book considers the principal sources of agreement and disagreement among policymakers and analysts concerning the current economic problems of Sub Saharan Africa A distinguished collection of international and African authors including economists from the IMF and the World Bank as well as their critics addresses the key policy issues in agriculture trade macroeconomic management social issues privatization external capital flow and political economy An introductory interpretive essay searches for areas of consensus and identifies those of continuing controversy A Trillion Trees Fred Pearce, 2022-04-26 A vivid important and inspiring book Elizabeth Kolbert Pulitzer Prize winning author of The Sixth Extinction and Under a White Sky Eloquently mulls the ecological dynamics of forests as well as the social economic cultural and political forces that determine their fate LA REVIEW OF BOOKS A powerful book about the decline and recovery of the world's forests with a provocative argument for their survival In A Trillion Trees veteran environmental journalist Fred Pearce takes readers on a whirlwind journey through some of the most spectacular forests around the world Along the way he charts the extraordinary pace of forest destruction and explores why some are beginning to recover With vivid observant reporting Pearce transports readers to the remote cloud forests of Ecuador the remains of a forest civilization in Nigeria a mystifying mountain peak in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean and the boreal forests of western Canada and the United States where devastating wildfires are linked to suppressing the natural fire cycles of forests and the maintenance practices of Indigenous peoples Throughout the book Pearce interviews the people who traditionally live in forests He speaks to Indigenous peoples in western Canada and the United States who are fighting to control their traditional forested lands and manage them according to their traditional practices He visits and speaks with Nepalese hill dwellers Kenyan farmers and West African sawyers who show him that forests are as much human landscapes as they are natural paradises The lives of humans are now imprinted in forest ecology At the heart of Pearce's investigation is a provocative argument planting more trees isn't the answer to declining forests If given room and left to their own devices forests and the people who live in them will fight back to restore their own domain Environment and Society in Ethiopia Girma Kebede, 2016-10-04 Ethiopia is facing environmental and poverty challenges and urgently needs effective management of its environmental resources Much of the Ethiopian landscape has been significantly altered and reshaped by centuries of human activities and three quarters of the rural population is living on degraded land Over the past two decades the country has seen rapid economic and population growth and unparalleled land use change This book explores the challenges of sustaining the resource base while fuelling the economy and providing for a growing population that is greatly dependent on natural resources for income and livelihoods Adopting a political ecology perspective this book comprehensively examines human impacts on the environment in Ethiopia defining the environment both in terms of the quantity and quality of renewable and non renewable natural resources With high levels of economic production and consumption also come unintended side effects waste discharges emissions of pollutants and industrial effluents These pollutants can degrade the quality of water air land and forests as well as harm the health of people animals and other living organisms if untreated or disposed of improperly This book demonstrates how the relationship between society and environment is inherently and delicately interwoven providing an account of Ethiopia s current environment and natural resource base and future considerations for environmentally sustainable development
