The Disappearing Russian Forest A Dilemma In Soviet Resource Management:

The Disappearing Russian Forest Brenton M. Barr, Kathleen E. Braden, 1988
The Forest Resources of the Former USSR S. Nilsson, O. Sallnäs, 1992-10-15 This work conveys the timber assessment of the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis IIASA Forest Study for the former European USSR Aspects of air pollution silviculture practices wood supply and forestry practice are covered Environmental Resources And Constraints In The Former Soviet Republics Philip Pryde, 2019-06-03 The rapid changes in the former Soviet Union have rendered most pre 1992 works on its environment obsolete A more specifically geographic approach that highlights the particular situation in each republic and region is offered by Philip R Pryde s new work Environmental Resources and Constraints in the Former Soviet Republics Focusing on Beyond the Monolith Peter J. Stavrakis, Joan DeBardeleben, Joseph Laurence Black, Jodi Koehn, 1997-09-26 In the wake of the USSR s breakup the eighty nine constituent subjects of the Russian Federation emerged as political players grasping power for local policies from a weakened central authority and electing the legislators who have altered the complexion of the central government Beyond the Monolith examines the impact of Russia s emerging regionalism on the political economic and social transformation of the largest of the successor states of the Soviet Union The authors explore significant variations between and similarities among different provinces the development of federalism in Russia the effectiveness of local government the power relationships between the center and the regions the differential impact of privatization outside Moscow and St Petersburg and the role of environmental public health and labor market factors in regional economies Contributors are Cynthia Buckley Carol Clark Robert V Daniels Mark G Field Alexander A Galkin Nail Midkhatovich Moukharlamov Demosthenes James Peterson Greg Poelzer Don K Rowney Darrell Slider and John F Young

Regional Environmental Changes in Siberia and Their Global Consequences Pavel Ya. Groisman, Garik Gutman, 2012-08-14 This volume presents a state of the art assessment of the Earth s climate system in Siberia and relationships between climate ecosystems and people in that region Changes in climatic variables and land cover in Siberia are among the earliest indicators of the Earth s response to climate warming The volume is a compilation of results from studies on climate land cover and land use changes and their interactions with biogeochemical and water cycles atmospheric aerosol and human and wildlife populations in Siberia Regional changes in Siberia are predicted to affect climate and people on a global scale NASA the Russian Academy of Sciences and several European institutions have supported these studies The primary supporter of the projects that produced the results compiled in this volume is the NASA Land Cover Land Use Change Program hence most studies use remote sensing in their research The chapters in this volume were written by an international team of scientists from the USA Europe and Russia under the auspices of the Northern Eurasia Earth Science Partnership Initiative NEESPI This book will be of interest to those involved in studying recent and ongoing changes in Siberia be they senior scientists early career scientists or students
The Physical Geography of Northern Eurasia

Maria Shahgedanova, 2003 This is the third volume in The Oxford Regional Environments series The series volumes are devoted to major regions of the world each presenting a detailed and up to date body of scientific knowledge concerning a particular region For most topics on the physical geography of Northern Eurasia abundant literature now exists Most of it however is in Russian and other East European languages and this has significantly limited the number of potential readers This volume seeks to familiarize at an international level those with an interest in this area with the most significant achievements in classical and current geographical research The Physical Geography of Northern Eurasia covers most of the territory of the former USSR The first section discusses the individual components of the physical environment These chapters cut across regional boundaries and treat the area discussed as a whole A regional analysis follows mainly in the context of geographical zonation though a number of specific regions are given individual treatment The concluding chapters discuss the effects of anthropogenic activities on the physical environment The approach is an integrative one tying together various aspects of the physical environments with the environmental implications of human activities Every component of the environment is treated as a step in the development of the multi faceted landscapes which in turn provide possibilities and limitations for cultural and economic usage Forest Resource Policy in Latin America Ronnie de Camino, Julio C. Tresierra, Ramón López, Thomas Kelly, Markku Simula, Kari Keipi, Carlos Felipe Jaramillo, Olli Haltia, Jared J. Hardner, Marc J. Dourojeanni, Jan G. Laarman, Richard Rice, 2000-01-01 Forest Resource Policy in Latin America gathers the thinking of a score of experts on sustainable use and management of forests including incentives for investment The authors tackle the thorny social issues of property rights deforestation and forest management and ownership by indigenous people and take a hard look at the trade and environmental issues in forest production that will affect future directions for sustainable forestry development in Latin America Some argue that the main opportunity to conserve natural forests lies in recognizing and paying for the environmental services they provide In addition compensatory measures such as the establishment and better management of strictly protected areas appear to be the best tools to delay the loss of ecosystems and species Alternative forest concession policies and trade and environmental issues in forest production are also analyzed The Soviet Environment John Massey Stewart, 1992-05-07 This book originally published in 1992 describes the Soviet environment at its crisis point in the late 1980s and early 1990s Beolorussia and the Ukraine had as a result of the Chernobyl accident been declared ecological disaster zones and across the country as a whole as many as 20 per cent of the population lived in environmental danger areas and another 35 40 per cent in unsatisfactory conditions According to a Supreme Soviet Environment Committee report of 1989 80% of all illness in the USSR related either directly or indirectly to environmental problems In this book leading specialists from both the West and the Soviet Union present a comprehensive analysis of these problems The contributors examine the aftermath of Chernobyl the catastrophic causes and effects of the Aral Sea s shrinkage the environmental issues and public unrest The depth of analysis in this volume together with the breadth of topics addressed will ensure that it is read by students and specialists of the Soviet Union and environmental issues as well as by all government officials journalists and industrialists with an interest in the Soviet environment

Environmental Problems in East-Central Europe Frank Carter, David Turnock, 2002-09-26 In this new edition the progress made in the last decade to solve the environmental problems described in the first edition is assessed The attempts to bring environmental legislation into line with West European norms is also described Environmental Problems of East Central Europe looks at air and water pollution modern farming water supplies waste management and landscape protection These topics are placed within economic social and political profiles as spending on a clean environment must be reconciled with welfare spending and the safeguarding of jobs European Union assistance civil society and the work of environmental NGOs are also discussed All of these matters are considered within the context of the wider geographical area and then by each individual country including the previously communist states lying to the west of the Soviet Union now with the former federal states of Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia broken up into seven different entities and a review of the former Soviet Union with particular reference to the Baltic States Environmental Problems in East Central Europe provides a wealth of up to date reference material with a vast amount of supporting literature on environmental conditions and the functioning of civil society and a map of each country The environment is being taken seriously by them all such is the influence of the Rio sustainability agenda in general and the EU environmental acquis in particular The book reveals that Eastern Europe is not a blighted area but in some respects has a higher biodiversity than Western Europe Although there is enormous waste and inefficiency in energy use people actually consume relatively little and the East therefore has some lessons for the West in terms of managing on the bases of fair share of the earth s resources

Boreal Forests and Global Change Michael J. Apps, David T. Price, Joe Wisniewski, 2013-03-14 Boreal forests form Earth s largest terrestrial biome They are rich in ecosystem and landscape diversity though characterized by relatively few plant species as compared to other forested regions The long term viability and sustainability of boreal forests is influenced by many factors They are subject to interruptions at intervals by large scale natural disturbances and increasingly by human activities Boreal ecosystem development is typically a slow process hence rapid changes in the global environment may invoke complex responses Many industrial nations border or lie within boreal regions deriving much of their economic wealth and culture from the forests The response of boreal forests to changes in the global environment whether caused by direct human activity or by indirect changes such as the anticipated changes in climate are therefore of considerable international interest both for their policy implications and their scientific challenges This book which contains almost 50 peer reviewed papers from a world wide group of experts assembled under the auspices of IBFRA the International Boreal Forest Research Association covers topics which will stimulate further research and the development of constructive policies for improved management and conservation of global boreal forest resources
