The Zoomorphic Imagination in Chinese Art and Culture Jerome Silbergeld, Eugene Y. Wang, 2016-10-31 China has an age old zoomorphic tradition The First Emperor was famously said to have had the heart of a tiger and a wolf The names of foreign tribes were traditionally written with characters that included animal radicals. In modern times the communist government frequently referred to Nationalists as running dogs and President Xi Jinping vowing to quell corruption at all levels pledged to capture both the tigers and the flies. Splendidly illustrated with works ranging from Bronze Age vessels to twentieth century conceptual pieces, this volume is a wide ranging look at zoomorphic and anthropomorphic imagery in Chinese art. The contributors, leading scholars in Chinese art history and related fields, consider depictions of animals not as simple one-for-one symbolic equivalents; they pursue in depth in complexity and in multiple dimensions the ways that Chinese have used animals from earliest times to the present day to represent and rhetorically stage complex ideas about the world around them, examining what this means about China past and present. In each chapter a specific example or theme based on real or mythic creatures is derived from religious, political or other sources, providing the detailed and learned examination needed to understand the means by which such imagery was embedded in Chinese cultural life. Bronze Age taotie motifs, calendrical animals, zoomorphic modes in Tantric Buddhist art, Song dragons and their painters, animal rebuses, Heaven sent auspicious horses and foreign sent tribute giraffes, the fantastic specimens depicted in the Qing Manual of Sea Oddities, the weirdly indeterminate creatures found in the contemporary art of Huang Yong Ping: these and other notable examples reveal Chinese attitudes over time toward the animal realm, explore Chinese psychology and patterns of imagination, and explain some of the critical means and motives of Chinese visual culture. The Zoomorphic Imagination in Chinese Art and Culture will find a ready audience among East Asian art and visual culture specialists and those with an interest in literary or visual rhetoric. Contributors: Sarah Allan, Qianshen Bai, Susan Bush, Daniel Greenberg, Carmelita Carma Hinton, Judy Chungwa Ho, Kristina Kleutghen, Kathlyn Liscomb, Jennifer Purtle, Jerome Silbergeld, Henrik S. Rensen, and Eugene Y. Wang.

Collecting China Vimalin Rujivacharakul, 2011-02-14. Collecting China is a unique collection of essays that brings together theories of materiality and what collecting has meant to various peoples over time. Collecting China grew out of a simple question: how does a thing become Chinese? Fifteen essays explore this question from different angles, ranging from close examination of world renowned private collections to critical reinterpretations of historical writings. Journal of the North-China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society for the Year, 1914.

Modernity's Classics Sarah C. Humphreys, Rudolf G. Wagner, 2013-02-11. This book presents critical studies of modern reconfigurations of conceptions of the past, of the classical and of national heritage. Its scope is global: China, India, Egypt, Iran, Judaism, the Greco-Roman world, and interdisciplinary textual philology, history of art and architecture, philosophy, gardening. Its emphasis is on the complexity of the modernization process and of reactions to it: ideas and technologies travelled from India to Iran and from Japan to China, while reactions show tensions between museumization and the recreation of presence. It challenges readers to rethink the assumptions of the disciplines in which they were trained.
