Turner, 1999-10-28 Trollope and the Magazines examines the serial publication of several of Trollope's novels in the context of the gendered discourses in a range of Victorian magazines, including Cornhill, Good Words, Saint Pauls, and the Fortnightly Review. It highlights the importance of the periodical press in the literary culture of Victorian Britain and argues that readers today need to engage with the lively cultural debates in the magazines in order better to appreciate the complexity of Trollope's popular fiction. The Shakespeare Head Edition of the Works of Anthony Trollope: An in the Novels of Anthony Trollope Jan Gordon, 2023-01-17 Although public opinion has always existed, it becomes an acknowledged political subject in both the Oxford English Dictionary 1864 and the Barsetshire Chronicle and Parliamentary Novels of Anthony Trollope contemporaneously with 1) the penetration of the press into local issues and 2) the entire question of which publics were to be represented. Public opinion hence is a composite of parliamentary law making as well as a kind of appellate division for society's social and judicial judgments providing an alternative narrative. It differs from gossip in the nineteenth century novel insofar as it contains no instruction manual, doesn't tell anyone who told you, but can be manipulated by a variety of new informational platforms to not merely impact but constitute decision making. Detached from any unitary authority and often anonymously narrated, public opinion like the orphan figure of nineteenth century literature is a discourse discontinuous from history, tradition, class alignments and foundational origins to become a law unto itself.

Plot summary The Small House at Allington concerns the Dale family who live in the Small House, a dower house intended for the widowed mother Dowager of the owner of the estate. The landowner in this instance is the bachelor Squire of Allington, Christopher Dale. Dale's mother having died, he has allocated the Small House rent free to his widowed sister in law and her daughters, Isabella Bell and Lilian Lily. When the novel begins, Bernard, the squire's nephew and heir, brings his friend Adolphus Crosbie to Allington and introduces him to the family. Crosbie is handsome and well regarded in London society. Bell and Lily are impressed by Crosbie's charm and worldliness, and Lily, the younger and wittier sister, labels him an Apollo. She and Crosbie grow increasingly intimate during his stay at Allington, and before leaving, he proposes to her. Mrs Dale has no money for a dowry, but Crosbie thinks the squire might provide Lily with some fortune, given that in many ways he treats her and Bell as if they were his daughters. When asked, the squire informs him this is not the case, leading Crosbie to reflect on how his salary as a clerk at the General Committee Office allows him to live comfortably as a bachelor, but if he were to marry and support a family on his current income, they would need to live very humbly. The engagement is made public and celebrated in Allington, but when Lily learns about his misunderstanding regarding her possible fortune, she offers to break off the engagement with no hard feelings. Crosbie refuses, however, because he is impressed by this noble gesture and genuinely fond of Lily. After leaving Allington, Crosbie heads straight to Courcy Castle Back among people of high society. Crosbie's image of married life with Lily on his small salary grows bleaker. Rumors have reached the castle, but Crosbie attempts to dodge any questions about his engagement. Thus, the Countess de Courcy views him as fair game and a viable match for her only single daughter, still of marriageable age, Alexandrina, who had previously struck up a friendship with Crosbie in London. Pressed by Alexandrina in a moment of weakness, he asks her to marry him, and the countess sees that their engagement is firmly settled between Crosbie and the earl before he leaves Crosbie immediately begins having second thoughts he is now engaged to two women and although he prefers Lily who is younger prettier and more intelligent she is a country girl he can jilt with few repercussions whereas Alexandrina is the daughter of a prominent family Thus he writes a letter to Lily and Mrs Dale breaking off the engagement Ironically he is given a raise in salary almost as soon as he returns to London and he muses how he could have had a comfortable happy life married to Lily Anthony Trollope 24 April 1815 6 December 1882 was an English novelist of the Victorian era Among his best known works is a series of novels collectively known as the Chronicles of Barsetshire which revolves around the imaginary county of Barsetshire He also wrote novels on political social and gender issues and other topical matters Trollope's literary reputation dipped somewhat during the last years of his life but he had regained the esteem of critics by the mid 20th century
