Houston Johnson, 2019-02-21 Taking Flight explores the emergence of commercial aviation between the world wars and in the midst of the Great Depression to show that the industry's dramatic growth resulted from a unique combination of federal policy, technological innovations, and public interest in air travel. Historian M. Houston Johnson traces the evolution of commercial flying from the US Army's trial airmail service in the spring of 1918 to the passage of the pivotal Air Commerce Act of 1938. Johnson emphasizes the role of federal policy, particularly as guided by both Herbert Hoover and Franklin Roosevelt, to reveal the close working relationship between federal officials and industry leaders, as well as an increasing dependence on federal assistance by airline airframe and engine manufacturers. Taking Flight highlights the federal government's successful efforts to foster a nascent industry in the midst of an economic crisis without resorting to nationalization, a path taken by virtually all European countries during the same era. It also underscores an important point of continuity between Hoover's policies and Roosevelt's New Deal, a sharp departure from many interpretations of Depression-era business history, and shows how both governmental and corporate actors were able to harness America's ongoing fascination with flying to further a larger economic agenda and facilitate the creation of the world's largest and most efficient commercial aviation industry. This glimpse into the golden age of flight contributes not only to the history of aviation but also to the larger history of the United States during the Great Depression and the period between the world wars. Clinical Psychology Internship for Underrepresented Students Anatasia Kim, Abigail Johal, 2021-08-16 This text introduces Taking Flight, a year-long clinical psychology internship program to be implemented for students of color and first-generation college-bound students. The program offers hands-on opportunities for participants to develop skills that will propel them to seek advanced degrees in mental health. The book offers a comprehensive internship curriculum based on a culturally affirming mentorship framework that aims to increase interns' exposure of clinical psychology, build confidence in their ability, and foster a sense of belonging as a means to inspire educational and career pursuits in the field. Chapters cover topics such as common mental health concerns, self-reflections, and insights, research, and clinical approaches, capstone projects, and presentations, and integration of knowledge, skills, and self-concept. An appendix includes worksheets to utilize throughout the course of the program. The program is designed to be operated within psychology departments in partnership with local high schools. The text will guide mental health providers and school professionals in executing this program in the hopes of ensuring a more diverse and inclusive clinical psychology workforce. Automated Systems in the Aviation and Aerospace Industries

Shmelova, Tetiana, Sikirda, Yuliya, Rizun, Nina, Kucherov, Dmytro, Dergachov, Konstantin, 2019-03-22 Air traffic controllers need advanced information and automated systems to provide a safe environment for everyone traveling by plane. One of the primary challenges in developing training for automated systems is to determine how much a trainee will need to know about the underlying technologies to use automation safely and efficiently. To ensure safety and success, task analysis techniques should be used as the basis of the design for training in automated systems in the aviation and aerospace industries Automated Systems in the Aviation and Aerospace Industries is a pivotal reference source that provides vital research on the application of underlying technologies used to enforce automation safety and efficiency While highlighting topics such as expert systems text mining and human machine interface this publication explores the concept of constructing navigation algorithms based on the use of video information and the methods of the estimation of the availability and accuracy parameters of satellite navigation This book is ideal for aviation professionals researchers and managers seeking current research on information technology used to reduce the risk involved in aviation
