Al-Kodmany, 2018-06-25 Each century has its own unique approach toward addressing the problem of high density and the 21st century is no exception As cities try to cope with rapid population growth adding 2.5 billion dwellers by 2050 and grapple with destructive sprawl politicians planners and architects have become increasingly interested in the vertical city paradigm Unfortunately cities all over the world are grossly unprepared for integrating tall buildings as these buildings may aggravate multidimensional sustainability challenges resulting in a vertical sprawl that could have worse consequences than horizontal sprawl By using extensive data and numerous illustrations this book provides a comprehensive guide to the successful and sustainable integration of tall buildings into cities A new crop of skyscrapers that employ passive design strategies green technologies energy saving systems and innovative renewable energy offers significant architectural improvements At the urban scale the book argues that planners must integrate tall buildings with efficient mass transit walkable neighbourhoods cycling networks vibrant mixed use activities iconic transit stations attractive plazas well landscaped streets spacious parks and engaging public art Particularly it proposes the Tall Building and Transit Oriented Development TB TOD model as one of the sustainable options for large cities going forward Building on the work of leaders in the fields of ecological and sustainable design this book will open readers eyes to a wider range of possibilities for utilizing green resilient smart and sustainable features in architecture and urban planning projects The 20 chapters offer comprehensive reading for all those interested in the planning design and construction of sustainable cities      Tall Buildings: From Engineering To Sustainability Y K Cheung, Kwong Wing Chau, 2005-12-06 A collection of papers presented at the Sixth International Conference on Tall Buildings ICTB this volume clearly explains the engineering and socio economic aspects of tall buildings in specific areas of sustainability The papers focus on Asian cities where tall buildings have become a major feature of the built environment A multi disciplinary book it also deals with the increasing complexity of inter related problems that require knowledge

Technology and Process Chris Abel,2007-03-30 This new selection of essays follows Chris Abel s previous best selling collection Architecture and Identity Drawing upon a wide range of knowledge and disciplines the author argues that underlying technological changes in the process of architectural production are fundamental changes in the way we think about machines and the world we live in Key topics include new patterns of urbanism in the fast growing cities of asia pacific metaphorical extensions of mind and body in cyberspace the divergent European and North American values shaping Sir Norman Foster s and Frank Gehry s work and the collaborative work methods and technologies creating the adaptable design practices of today Planning for Tall Buildings Michael Short,2012-11-12 In a time of recession the challenge of building and planning for tall buildings has become even more complex the economics of development legislative and planning frameworks and the local politics of development must be navigated by those wishing to design and construct new tall buildings which fit within the fabric of their host cities This book is a timely contribution to the debate about new tall buildings and their role and effect on our cities It is divided into two main parts In part one the relationship between tall buildings and planning is outlined followed by an exploration of the impacts that construction of tall buildings can have. It focuses in particular on the conservation debates that proposals for new tall buildings raise. The first part ends with an analysis of the way in which planning strategies have evolved to deal with the unique consequences of tall buildings on their urban locations. The second part of the book focuses on seven examples of medium sized cities dealing with planning and conservation issues and implications that arise from tall buildings. These have been chosen to reflect a wide range of methods to either encourage or to control tall buildings that cities are deploying. The case studies come from across the western world covering England Manchester Liverpool Newcastle and Birmingham Norway Oslo Ireland Dublin and Canada Vancouver and represent a broad spectrum of approaches to dealing with this issue. In drawing together the experiences of these varied cities the book contributes to the ongoing debate about the role of the tall building in our cities their potential impacts and experiences of those who use and inhabit them. The conclusions outline how cities should approach the strategic planning of tall buildings as well as how they should deal with the consequences of individual buildings particularly on the built heritage.

Understanding Cities Alexander R. Cuthbert, 2011. Understanding Cities is richly textured complex and challenging. It creates the vital link between urban design theory and praxis and opens the required methodological gateway to a new and unified field of urban design. Using spatial political economy as his most important reference point, Alexander Cuthbert both interrogates and challenges mainstream urban design and provides an alternative and viable comprehensive framework for a new synthesis. He rejects the idea of yet another theory in urban design and chooses instead to construct the necessary intellectual and conceptual scaffolding for what he terms The New Urban Design. Building both on Michel de Certeau's concept of heterology, thinking about thinking and on the framework of his previous books Designing Cities and The Form of Cities, Cuthbert uses his prior adopted framework: history, philosophy, politics, culture, gender, environment, aesthetics, typologies and pragmatics to create three integrated texts. Overall, the trilogy allows a new field of urban design to emerge. Pre-existing and new knowledge are integrated across all three volumes of which Understanding Cities is the culminating text.

Rethinking Aesthetics Ritu Bhatt, 2013. Rethinking Aesthetics is the first book to bring together prominent voices in the fields of architecture, philosophy, aesthetics and cognitive sciences to radically rethink the relationship between body and design. These essays argue that aesthetic experiences can be nurtured at any moment in everyday life thanks to recent discoveries by researchers in neuroscience, phenomenology, somatics and analytic philosophy of the mind who have made the correlations between aesthetic cognition, the human body and everyday life much clearer. The essays by Yuriko Saito, Juhani Pallasmaa and Richard Shusterman among others range from an integrated mind-body approach to chair design to Zen Buddhist notions of mindfulness to theoretical accounts of existential relationships with buildings to present a full spectrum of possible inquiries. By placing the body in the center of design, Rethinking Aesthetics opens new directions for rethinking the limits of both essentialism and skepticism.

New Urban Housing Hilary French, 2006-01-01. A timely investigation of the most innovative recent urban housing constructions The design of high density housing is inextricably linked to the growth of towns and cities as urban centers have increased in both geographical size and density housing has had to be provided to accommodate the numbers and needs of the population Whether highly visible or merged with the existing cityscape a vast proportion of the fabric of any city is made up of residential space New Urban Housing looks at a selection of some of the most inventive contemporary projects built in countries around the world Author Hilary French provides a comprehensive introduction to this building type from its industrial beginnings in London and Paris to New York City's Lower East Side and the 20th century designs of Le Corbusier Antonio Sant'Elia and Mies van der Rohe Lavishly illustrated the book examines different formal typologies of urban housing terrace and row houses quadrangles and courtyards city blocks and infill or renovated and reused sites and towers and slab blocks Thirty six case studies from fourteen countries are presented by architects including Steven Holl Richard Meier Koenig Eizenberg Architecture Eduardo Souto de Moura and Renzo Piano Each is illustrated in full color and is accompanied by detailed plans and sections that discuss the needs of the site and place the project in its surrounding context New Urban Housing features these buildings and more Contemporaine Chicago Donnybrook Quarter London Harold Way Apartments Hollywood Mondrian Apartments Sydney Simmons Hall MIT

Cambridge MA Yerba Buena Lofts San Francisco The extended self Chris Abel, 2016-10-28 In this wide ranging study of architecture and cultural evolution the author argues that underlying the global environmental crisis is a general resistance to changing personal and social identities shaped by a technology based culture and its energy hungry products The book traces the roots of that culture to the coevolution of Homo sapiens and technology from the first use of tools as artificial extensions of the human body to the motorised cities spreading around the world whose uncontrolled effects are changing the planet itself Advancing a new concept of the meme called the technical meme as the primary agent of cognitive extension and technical embodiment the author proposes a theory of the extended self encompassing material and spatial as well as psychological and social elements Drawing upon research from philosophy psychology and the neurosciences the book presents a new approach to environmental and cultural studies that will appeal to a broad readership searching for insights into the crisis The Built Environment Wendy R. McClure, Tom J. Bartuska, 2011-09-09 This book takes a sweeping view of the ways we build things beginning at the scale of products and interiors to that of regions and global systems In doing so it answers questions on how we effect and are affected by our environment and explores how components of what we make from products buildings and cities are interrelated and why designers and planners must consider these connections

Sky-High Eric P. Understanding Tall Buildings Kheir Al-Kodmany, 2017-02-17 In recent years the rapid pace of tall building construction has fostered a certain kind of placelessness with many new tall buildings being built out of scale context and place By analyzing hundreds of tall buildings and by providing hundreds of visuals that inspire stimulate and engage Understanding Tall Buildings contends that well designed tall buildings can rejuvenate cities ignite economic activity support social life and boost city pride Although this book does not claim to possess all the solutions it does propose specific tall building design guidelines that may help to promote placemaking Through this work it is the author's hope that ill conceived developments will become less common in the future and that good placemaking will become the norm not the exception This book is a must read for students and practitioners working to create better tall buildings and better urban environments

The Form of Cities Alexander R. Cuthbert, 2008-04-15 The Form of Cities offers readers a considered theoretical introduction to the art of designing cities Demonstrates that cities are replete with symbolic values collective memory association and conflict Proposes a new theoretical understanding of urban design based in political economy Demonstrates different ways of conceptualising the city whether through aesthetics or the prism of gender for example Written in an engaging and jargon free style but retains a sophisticated interpretative edge Complements Designing Cities by the same author Blackwell 2003
