Slow Fade To Black The Negro In American Film 1900 1942:

Slow Fade to Black Thomas Cripps, 1977-02-03 Set against the backdrop of the black struggle in society Slow Fade to Black is the definitive history of African American accomplishment in film both before and behind the camera from the earliest movies through World War II As he records the changing attitudes toward African Americans both in Hollywood and the nation at large Cripps explores the growth of discrimination as filmmakers became more and more intrigued with myths of the Old South the lost cause aspect of the Civil War the stately mansions and gracious ladies of the antebellum South the happy slaves singing in the fields Cripps shows how these characterizations culminated in the blatantly racist attitudes of Griffith's The Birth of a Nation and how this film inspired the N A A C P to campaign vigorously and successfully for change While the period of the 1920s to 1940s was one replete with Hollywood stereotypes blacks most often appeared as domestics or natives or were portrayed in shiftless cowardly Stepin Fetchit roles there was also an attempt at independent black production on the whole unsuccessful But with the coming of World War II increasing pressures for a wider use of blacks in films and calls for more equitable treatment African Americans did begin to receive more sympathetic roles such as that of Sam the piano player in the 1942 classic Casablanca A lively thorough history of African Americans in the movies Slow Fade to Black is also a perceptive social commentary on evolving racial attitudes in this country during the first four decades of the twentieth century

Slow Fade to Black Thomas Cripps, 1993 The American Experience in World War II: The atomic bomb in history and memory Walter L. Hixson, 2003 World War II changed the face of the United States catapulting the country out of economic depression political isolation and social conservatism Ultimately the war was a major formative factor in the creation of modern America This unique twelve volume set provides comprehensive coverage of this transformation in its domestic policies diplomatic relations and military strategies as well as the changing cultural and social arenas The collection presents the history of the creation of a super power prior to during and after the war analyzing all major phases of the U S involvement making it a one stop resource that will be essential for all libraries supporting a history curriculum This volume is available on its own or as part of the twelve volume set The American Experience in World War II For a complete list of the volume titles in this set see the listing for The American Experience in World War II ISBN 0 415 94028 1

Remaking Race and History RenŽe Ater, Meta Warrick Fuller, 2011-11-22 The George Gund Foundation imprint in African American studies Black Masculinity on Film Daniel O'Brien, 2017-09-06 This book provides wide ranging commentary on depictions of the black male in mainstream cinema O'Brien explores the extent to which counter representations of black masculinity have been achieved within a predominately white industry with an emphasis on agency the negotiation and malleability of racial status and the inherent instability of imposed racial categories Focusing on American and European cinema the chapters highlight actors Woody Strode Noble Johnson Eddie Anderson Will Smith genres jungle pictures westerns science fiction and franchises Tarzan James Bond underrepresented in previous critical and scholarly commentary in the field The author argues that although the characters and performances generated in these areas invoke popular genre types they display complexity diversity and ambiguity exhibiting aspects that are positive progressive and subversive This book will appeal to both the academic and the general reader interested in film race gender and colonial issues Women and Mixed Race Representation in Film Valerie C. Gilbert, 2021-09-24 This book uses a black white interracial lens to examine the lives and careers of eight prominent American born actresses from the silent age through the studio era New Hollywood and into the present century Josephine Baker Nina Mae McKinney Fredi Washington Lena Horne Dorothy Dandridge Lonette McKee Jennifer Beals and Halle Berry Combining biography with detailed film readings the author fleshes out the tragic mulatto stereotype while at the same time exploring concepts and themes such as racial identity the one drop rule passing skin color transracial adoption interracial romance and more With a wealth of background information this study also places these actresses in historical context providing insight into the construction of race both onscreen and off How It Feels to Be Free Ruth Feldstein, 2013-11-26 Winner of the Benjamin L Hooks National Book Award Winner of the Michael Nelson Prize of the International Association for Media and History In 1964 Nina Simone sat at a piano in New York's Carnegie Hall to play what she called a show tune Then she began to sing Alabama's got me so upset Tennessee made me lose my rest And everybody knows about Mississippi Goddam Simone and her song became icons of the civil rights movement But her confrontational style was not the only path taken by black women entertainers In How It Feels to Be Free Ruth Feldstein examines celebrated black women performers illuminating the risks they took their roles at home and abroad and the ways that they raised the issue of gender amid their demands for black liberation Feldstein focuses on six women who made names for themselves in the music film and television industries Simone Lena Horne Miriam Makeba Abbey Lincoln Diahann Carroll and Cicely Tyson These women did not simply mirror black activism their performances helped constitute the era's political history Makeba connected America's struggle for civil rights to the fight against apartheid in South Africa while Simone sparked high profile controversy with her incendiary lyrics Yet Feldstein finds nuance in their careers In 1968 Hollywood cast the outspoken Lincoln as a maid to a white family in For Love of Ivy adding a layer of complication to the film That same year Diahann Carroll took on the starring role in the television series Julia Was Julia a landmark for casting a black woman or for treating her race as unimportant The answer is not clear cut Yet audiences gave broader meaning to what sometimes seemed to be apolitical performances How It Feels to Be Free demonstrates that entertainment was not always just entertainment and that We Shall Overcome was not the only soundtrack to the civil rights movement By putting black women performances at center stage Feldstein sheds light on the meanings of black womanhood in a revolutionary time Do What You Gotta Do Ruth Feldstein, 2013 Do What You Gotta Do examines the role of black female entertainers in the Civil Rights movement Carter G. Woodson: A Life in Black History, Critical Dictionary of Film and Television Theory Roberta Pearson, Philip Simpson, 2005-12-08 The Critical Dictionary of Film and Television

Black Children in Hollywood Cinema Debbie Olson, 2017-03-14 This book explores cultural conceptions of the child and the cinematic absence of black children from contemporary Hollywood film Debbie Olson argues that within the discourse of children's studies and film scholarship in relation to the conception of the child there is often little to no distinction among children by race the child is most often discussed as a universal entity as the embodiment of all things not adult not sexually corrupt Discussions about children of color among scholars often take place within contexts such as crime drugs urbanization poverty or lack of education that tend to reinforce historically stereotypical beliefs about African Americans Olson looks at historical conceptions of childhood within scholarly discourse the child character in popular film and what space the black child both African and African American occupies within that ideal

Disfigured Images Patricia Morton, 1991-05-21 Much of the material unearthed by this book is ugly states historiographer Patricia Morton who exposes profoundly dehumanizing constructions of reality embedded in American scholarship as it has attempted to render the history of the Afro American woman Focusing on the scholarly literature of fact rather than on fictional or popular portrayals Disfigured Images explores the telling and frequent mis telling of the story of black women during a century of American historiography beginning in the late nineteenth century and extending to the present Morton finds that during this period a large body of scholarly literature was generated that presented little fact and much fiction about black women's history The book's ten chapters take long and lingering looks at the black woman's prefabricated past Contemporary revisionist studies with their goals of discovering and articulating the real nature of the slave woman's experience and role are thoroughly examined in the conclusion Disfigured Images complements current work by recognizing in its findings a long needed refutation of a caricatured mythical version of black women's history Morton's introduction presents an overview of her subject emphasizing the mythical ingrained nature of the black woman's image in historiography as a natural and permanent slave The succeeding chapters use historical and social science works as primary sources to explore such issues as the foundations of sexism racism the writing of W E B DuBois twentieth century notions of black women current black and women's studies new and old images of motherhood and more The conclusion investigates how and why recent American historiographical scholarship has banished the old myths by presenting a more accurate history of black women This keenly perceptive and original study should find an influential place in both women's studies and black studies programs as well as in American history American literature and sociology departments With its unusually complete panorama of the period covered it would be a unique and valuable addition to courses such as slavery the American South women in North American history Afro American history race and sex in American literature and discourse and the sociology of race

Early Race Filmmaking in America Barbara Lupack, 2016-05-26 The early years of the twentieth century were a formative time in the long history of struggle for black representation More than any other medium movies reflected the tremendous changes occurring in American society Unfortunately since they drew heavily on the nineteenth century theatrical conventions of blackface minstrelsy and the Uncle Tom Show traditions early pictures persisted in casting blacks in demeaning and outrageous caricatures that marginalized and burlesqued them and emphasized their comic or servile behavior By contrast race films that is movies that were black cast black oriented and viewed primarily by black audiences in segregated theaters attempted to counter the crude stereotyping and regressive representations by presenting more authentic racial portrayals This volume examines race filmmaking from numerous perspectives By reanimating a critical but neglected period of early cinema the years between the turn of the century and 1930 the end of the silent film era it provides a fascinating look at the efforts of early race film pioneers and offers a vibrant portrait of race and racial representation in American film and culture

The Southern Diaspora James N. Gregory, 2006-05-18 Between 1900 and the 1970s twenty million southerners migrated north and west Weaving together for the first time the histories of these black and white migrants James Gregory traces their paths and experiences in a comprehensive new study that demonstrates how this regional diaspora reshaped America by southernizing communities and transforming important cultural and political institutions Challenging the image of the migrants as helpless and poor Gregory shows how both black and white southerners used their new surroundings to become agents of change Combining personal stories with cultural political and demographic analysis he argues that the migrants helped create both the modern civil rights movement and modern conservatism They spurred changes in American religion notably modern evangelical Protestantism and in popular culture including the development of blues jazz and country music In a sweeping account that pioneers new understandings of the impact of mass migrations Gregory recasts the history of twentieth century America He demonstrates that the southern diaspora was crucial to transformations in the relationship between American regions in the politics of race and class and in the roles of religion the media and culture

Fighting a Movie with Lightning : „The Birth of a Nation“ and the Black Community Stefanie Laufs, 2014-02-01 Despite their efforts black activists throughout the early 20th century were not able to achieve full equality and fair treatment in society However they gained a new way of thinking that resulted in the formation of the New Negro This term in essence designates a new way of thinking in the black community Its members were neither satisfied with nor accepted their inferior position in society and were willing to fight for their rights Phenomena that paradoxically had a positive impact on the black community as a whole and especially on the New Negro were the actions undertaken by African Americans all over the United States in response to D W Griffith s racist 1915 silent movie The Birth of a Nation It is the aim of this paper to prove that these activities undertaken by African Americans and their supporters in the early 20th century against The Birth of a Nation influenced and shaped the black community as a whole but especially the notion of the New Negro both politically and culturally

Freedom's Racial Frontier Herbert G. Ruffin, Dwayne A. Mack, 2018-03-15 Between 1940 and 2010 the black population of the American West grew from 710 400 to 7 million With that explosive growth has come a burgeoning interest in the history of the African American West an interest reflected in the remarkable range and depth of the works collected in Freedom s Racial Frontier Editors Herbert G Ruffin II and Dwayne A Mack have gathered established and emerging scholars in the field to create an anthology that links past current and future generations of African American West scholarship The volume s sixteen chapters address the African American experience within the framework of the West as a multicultural frontier The result is a fresh perspective on western U S history centered on the significance of African American life culture and social justice in almost every trans Mississippi state Examining and interpreting the twentieth century while mindful of events and developments since 2000 the contributors focus on community formation cultural diversity civil rights and black empowerment and artistic creativity and identity Reflecting the dynamic evolution of new approaches and new sites of knowledge in the field of western history the authors consider its interconnections with fields such as cultural studies literature and sociology Some essays deal with familiar places while others look at understudied sites such as Albuquerque Oahu and Las Vegas Nevada By examining black suburbanization the Information Age and gentrification in the urban West several authors conceive of a Third Great Migration of African Americans to and within the West The West revealed in Freedom s Racial Frontier is a place where black Americans have fought and continue to fight to make their idea of freedom live up to their expectations of equality a place where freedom is still a frontier for most persons of African heritage

Left of Hollywood Chris Robé, 2011-11-15 In the 1930s as the capitalist system faltered many in the United States turned to the political Left Hollywood so deeply embedded in capitalism was not immune to this shift Left of Hollywood offers the first book length study of Depression era Left film theory and criticism in the United States Rob studies the development of this theory and criticism over the course of the 1930s as artists and intellectuals formed alliances in order to establish an engaged political film movement that aspired toward a popular cinema of social change Combining extensive archival research with careful close analysis of films Rob explores the origins of this radical social formation of U S Left film culture Grounding his arguments in the surrounding contexts and aesthetics of a few films in particular Sergei Eisenstein s Que Viva Mexico Fritz Lang s Fury William Dieterle s Juarez and Jean Renoir s La Marseillaise Rob focuses on how film theorists and critics sought to foster audiences who might push both film culture and larger social practices in more progressive directions Turning at one point to anti lynching films Rob discusses how these movies united black and white film critics forging an alliance of writers who championed not only critical spectatorship but also the public support of racial equality Yet despite a stated interest in forging more egalitarian social relations gender bias was endemic in Left criticism of the era and female centered films were regularly discounted Thus Rob provides an in depth examination of this overlooked shortcoming of U S Left film criticism and theory
