single sitting and at last the poor widow had to go to the commissioners for the relief of the poor in order to get food for him But the town authorities said she must apprentice the boy at a trade for he was big enough and strong enough to earn his own keep So Kn s was apprenticed to a smith for three years For his pay he asked a suit of clothes and a sword each year a sword of five hundredweights the first year one of ten hundredweights the second year and one of fifteen hundredweights the third year But after he had been in the smithy only a few days the smith was glad to give him all three suits and all three swords at once for he smashed all his iron and steel to bits Kn s received his suits and swords went to a knight s estate and hired himself out as a serving man Once he was told to go to the forest to gather firewood with the rest of the men but sat at the table eating long after the others had driven off and when he had at last satisfied his hunger and was ready to start he saw the two young oxen he was to drive waiting for him But he let them stand and went into the forest seized the two largest trees growing there tore them out by the roots took one tree under each arm and carried them back to the estate And he got there long before the rest for they had to chop down the trees saw them up and load them on the carts On the following day Kn s had to thresh First he hunted up the largest stone he could find and rolled it around on the grain so that all the corn was loosened from the ears Then he had to separate the grain from the chaff So he made a hole in each side of the roof of the barn and stood outside the barn and blew and the chaff and straw flew out into the yard and the corn remained lying in a heap on the floor His master happened to come along laid a ladder against the barn climbed up and looked down into one of the holes But Kn s was still blowing and the wind caught his master and he fell down and was nearly killed on the stone pavement of the court He s a dangerous fellow thought his master It would be a good thing to be rid of him otherwise he might do away with all of them and besides he ate so that it was all one could do to keep him fed So he called Kn s in and paid him his wages for the full year on condition that he leave Kn s agreed but said he must first be decently provisioned for his journey So he was allowed to go into the store house himself and there he hoisted a flitch of bacon on each shoulder slid a batch of bread under each arm and took leave But his master loosed the vicious bull on him Kn s however grasped him by the horns and flung him over his shoulder and thus he went off Then he came to a thicket where he slaughtered the bull roasted him and ate him together with a batch of bread And when he had done this he had about taken the edge off his hunger
