Teaching Motivation:

Teaching Motivation for Student Engagement Debra K. Meyer, Alyssa Emery, 2021-03-01 Helping teachers understand and apply theory and research is one of the most challenging tasks of teacher preparation and professional development. As they learn about motivation and engagement, teachers need conceptually rich yet easy to use frameworks. At the same time, teachers must understand that student engagement is not separate from development, instructional decision making, classroom management, student relationships, and assessment. This volume on teaching teachers about motivation addresses these challenges. The authors share multiple approaches and frameworks to cut through the growing complexity and variety of motivational theories and tie theory and research to real world experiences that teachers are likely to encounter in their courses and classroom experiences. Additionally, each chapter is summarized with key take away practices. A shared perspective across all the chapters in this volume on teaching teachers about motivation is walking the talk. In every chapter, readers will be provided with rich examples of how research on and principles of classroom motivation can be reconceptualized through a variety of college teaching strategies. Teachers and future teachers learning about motivation need to experience explicit modeling practice and constructive feedback in their college courses and professional development in order to incorporate those into their own practice. In addition, a core assumption throughout this volume is the importance of understanding the situated nature of motivation and avoiding a one size fits all approach in the classroom. Teachers need to fully interrogate their instructional practices not only in terms of motivational principles but also for their cultural relevance, equity, and developmental appropriateness. Just like P-12 students, college students bring their histories as learners and beliefs about motivation to their formal study of motivation. That is why college instructors teaching motivation must begin by helping students evaluate their personal beliefs and experiences. Relatedly, college instructors need to know their students and model differentiating their interactions to support each of them. The authors in this volume have collectively decades of experience teaching at the college level and conducting research in motivation and provide readers with a variety of strategies to help teachers and future teachers explore how motivation is supported and undermined. In each chapter in this volume, readers will learn how college instructors can demonstrate what effective motivationally supportive classrooms look sound and feel like.

Essential Motivation in the Classroom Ian Gilbert, 2003-08-29 An energetic, witty, and stimulating book including lively anecdotes and quotes from celebrities such as Bill Gates and Will Smith. Full of achievable ideas that don't cost a penny to implement. Jayne Verity, DfES. A must read for anyone who is passionate about ensuring everyone leaves a classroom feeling more empowered than when they entered it, and this includes the adults too. Debbie Wyld, Advanced Skills Teacher, Manor Academy. When this book was first published, schools were under intense government pressure to improve teacher morale, was being constantly hammered by the Chief Inspector of Schools, the Daily Mail was proclaiming that exams were getting easier, standards were dropping, and everyone was bemoaning the state of classroom behaviour. Global Perspectives on Teacher Motivation Helen M. G. Watt, Paul W. Richardson, Kari Smith, 2017-09-08 Many studies of teacher motivation have been conducted in different contexts over time However until fairly recently there has not been a reliable measure available to allow comparisons across samples and settings This has resulted in an abundance of findings which cannot be directly compared or synthesised The FIT Choice instrument offers the opportunity to examine motivations across settings The various studies in this book suggest that people who choose teaching as a career are motivated by a complex interaction of factors embedded within communities and cultural expectations but seem generally to embrace a desire to undertake meaningful work that makes for a better society Unlike some careers where rewards are in the form of salary and status by and large these factors are not strong drivers for people who want to become teachers They want to work with children and adolescents and believe they have the ability to teach Motivation and Emotion in Learning and Teaching across Educational Contexts Gerda Hagenauer, Rebecca Lazarides, Hanna Järvenoja, 2023-11-28 Motivation and Emotion in Learning and Teaching across Educational Contexts brings together current theoretical and methodological perspectives as well as examples of empirical implementations from leading international researchers focusing on the context specificity and situatedness of their core theories in motivation and emotion The book is compiled of two main sections Section I covers theoretical reflections and perspectives on the main theories on emotion and motivation in learning and teaching and their transferability across different educational contexts illustrated with empirical examples Section II addresses the methodological reflections and perspectives on the methodology that is needed to address the complexity and context specificity of motivation and emotion In addition to general reflections and perspectives regarding methodology concrete empirical examples are provided All cutting edge chapters include current empirical studies on emotions and motivation in learning and teaching across different contexts age groups domains countries etc making them applicable and relevant to a wide range of contexts and settings This high quality volume with contributions from leading international experts will be an essential resource for researchers students and teacher trainers interested in the vital role that motivation and emotions can play in education
