McIver,2005-05-15 Most educators intuitively understand the critical relationship between thinking and writing writing allows us to express what we think but the very act of writing spurs a process of exploration that changes our thinking and helps us learn Teaching Writing in the Content Areas examines nearly 30 years of research to identify how teachers can incorporate writing instruction that helps students master the course content and improve their overall achievement Building on the recommendations of the National Commission on Writing authors Vicki Urquhart and Monette McIver introduce four critical issues teachers should address when they include writing in their content courses Creating a positive environment for the feedback and guidance students need at various stages including prewriting drafting revising and editing Monitoring and assessing how much students are learning through their writing Choosing computer programs that best enhance the writing process Strengthening their knowledge of course content and their own writing skills The authors also provide 35 classroom strategies practices and handouts that teachers can easily implement in most subject areas or grade levels From prewriting guides and work sheets to instructional guidance and analysis the strategies offer realistic options to help teachers tailor writing assignments and instruction to the needs of each class Teaching Writing in the Content Areas is more than a primer for teaching the mechanics of writing it is a research based guide to regularly engaging students in writing that pushes them to express themselves clearly to explore new ideas and to become critical thinkers Writing as a Learning Tool Päivi

Tynjälä,L. Mason,K. Lonka,2012-12-06 In a brief summary the debate concerning the nature of writing processes is about whether the essential characteristic of expertise in writing is a matter of mastering problem solving strategies In this respect the role of social and interactive factors such as writers familiarity with the particular genre in which they are writing and their relationship with the discourse community in which they are participating have been pointed out e g Nystrand 1989 According to the socio interactive approach which refers to Vygotsky s theory the composition process is a dialogue between the writer and the reader made possible by socially shared knowledge The meaning of a text is a social construct that is negotiated between the reader and the writer through the medium of the text The importance of motivational aspects has also been highlighted by two main lines of research studies of the relationship between writing and self efficacy e g Pajares Benton Corkill Sharp Downey Khramtsova 1995 Hidi McLaren 1990 1991 Self efficacy in this context individuals beliefs about their ability to produce certain types of texts have been found to be predictive of writing skills strategy use and writing performance Advanced Strategies and Models for Integrating RTI in Secondary Schools Epler, Pam L.,2019-01-18 To better identify and assist struggling students and avoid unnecessary placement into special education services the service delivery model response to intervention RTI is used with the general education population Even though RTI has been studied in elementary schools for many years further research on its use at the secondary academic level is scarce Advanced Strategies and Models for Integrating RTI in Secondary Schools provides emerging research exploring the advanced theoretical and practical aspects of the use of RTI to assist teachers in providing research based instructional strategies to students who are failing their academic subjects Featuring coverage on a broad range of topics such as behavioral response progress monitoring and career readiness this book is ideally designed for educators researchers and academic professionals seeking current research on the most effective models in place to promote positive student academic achievement
