Differing visions of a Learning Society Vol 1 Coffield, Frank, 2000-07-26 Lifelong learning has been an evidence free zone for too long It has been under researched and under theorised This volume the first of two is the culmination of years of empirical work undertaken for the ESRC s Learning Society Programme a major investment in lifelong learning research It explores the ways lifelong learning can contribute to the development of knowledge and skills for employment and other areas of adult life In this first volume the contributors address the challenges to social science researchers to study issues that are central and directly relevant to the political and policy debate and to take into account the reality of people s lives Each chapter gives an overview of one project describing its objectives methods main findings and policy implications Some of the main themes explored include the education market post 16 key skills in Higher Education adult guidance services and how knowledge can be developed at work In the introduction these topics are placed by the editor within the broad context of research and policy on different types of learning societies and lifelong learning The evidence provided shows what policies are or are not working and provides the basis for structural reform Some of the conclusions arrived at by the projects challenge fundamental assumptions of current policy The contributions demonstrate the value of independent critical research in an area which is awash with unsubstantiated generalities armchair musings and banalities without bite Differing visions of a Learning Society contributes to the public debate on lifelong learning and is essential reading for politicians policy makers practitioners academics and researchers concerned in any way with lifelong learning
