Allison, 2025-08-19 Literary celebrity in the nineteenth century emerged from a miscellaneous array of trending print forms including antislavery writing which was a popular consumable form of literature in the period Antislavery print culture could function as a pop culture leveraging cultural myths about gender and authorship through print forms that connected readers with writers printed collections of author signatures descriptions of writers homes autobiography biography and travel writing The Rise of Celebrity Authorship traces surprising relations among figures and across shared forms in the period. What do antislavery forms and figures tell us about literary celebrity and the networks of transatlantic print culture? Sarah Danielle Allison illuminates the collective creation of celebrity by tracing unexpected connections within this anarchic nineteenth-century literary marketplace. Bringing together book history with more recent computational approaches, The Rise of Celebrity Authorship shifts focus from the conventional literary work of major writers to the breadth of print forms circulating around them. Allison considers a variety of texts adjacent to the novel, including Edgar Allan Poe's satire of autograph collecting, antislavery gift books, and a Southern travelogue by the Swedish writer Frederika Bremer. She draws striking parallels between two starkly different 1858 texts: Elizabeth Gaskell's biography of Charlotte Brontë, which sought to unearth the reality behind Jane Eyre, and Josiah Henson's autobiography, which circulated as the life of the original Uncle Tom. A rich account of the competing and complementary forces that shape images of authors, this book reveals the collaborative work of literary production and celebrity.

The Preparation of the Novel Roland Barthes, 2011. Completed just weeks before his death, the lectures in this volume mark a critical juncture in the career of Roland Barthes, in which he declared the intention deeply felt to write a novel. Unfolding over the course of two years, Barthes engaged in a unique pedagogical experiment: he combined teaching and writing to simulate the trial of novel writing, exploring every step of the creative process along the way. Barthes's lectures move from the desire to write to the actual decision making, planning, and material act of producing a novel. He meets the difficulty of transitioning from short, concise notations exemplified by his favorite literary form, haiku, to longer, uninterrupted flows of narrative, and he encounters a number of setbacks. Barthes takes solace in a diverse group of writers, including Dante, whose La Vita Nuova was similarly inspired by the death of a loved one, and he turns to classical philosophy, Taoism, and the works of François de La Rochefoucauld, Gustave Flaubert, Franz Kafka, and Marcel Proust. This book uniquely includes eight elliptical plans for Barthes's unwritten novel, which he titled Vita Nova, and lecture notes that sketch the critic's views on photography. Following on The Neutral (Lecture Course at the Collège de France, 1977-1978) and a third forthcoming collection of Barthes's lectures, this volume provides an intensely personal account of the labor and love of writing.

Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature, 1925. Sliver of Truth Lisa Unger, 2013. New York writer Ridley Jones finds herself at the center of a global crime network when she picks up a few prints at a local photo lab; prints that reveal the presence of a mysterious, familiar, and supposedly dead figure with ties to her own past.
