Canada Building Communities of Engaged Readers Teresa Cremin, Marilyn Mottram, Fiona M. Collins, Sacha Powell, Kimberly Safford, 2014-06-20 Reading for pleasure urgently requires a higher profile to raise attainment and increase children's engagement as self motivated and socially interactive readers Building Communities of Engaged Readers highlights the concept of Reading Teachers who are not only knowledgeable about texts for children but are aware of their own reading identities and prepared to share their enthusiasm and understanding of what being a reader means Sharing the processes of reading with young readers is an innovative approach to developing new generations of readers Examining the interplay between the will and the skill to read the book distinctively details a reading for pleasure pedagogy and demonstrates that reader engagement is strongly influenced by relationships between children teachers families and communities Importantly it provides compelling evidence that reciprocal reading communities in school encompass a shared concept of what it means to be a reader in the 21st century considerable teacher and child knowledge of children's literature and other texts pedagogic practices which acknowledge and develop diverse reader identities spontaneous inside text talk on the part of all members a shift in the focus of control and new social spaces that encourage choice and children's rights as readers Written by experts in the literacy field and illustrated throughout with examples from the project schools it is essential reading for all those concerned with improving young people's enjoyment of and attainment in reading Bridges and Barriers Eddie Williams, 2014-06-03 Recent decades have seen sub Saharan Africa decline in both economic and human terms The rich North has responded with a barrage of well publicized initiatives from pop concerts to international commitments on debt relief aid trade and good governance Among the complex of factors necessary to sustain economic and human development education receives little media coverage although it is crucial However education must be effective This book argues that in Anglophone Africa education is not effective because of the use of English rather than children's first languages both as the medium of instruction and also as the language in which children are first taught to read Research is presented from Malawi and Zambia countries with contrasting language policies using evidence from tests in English and African languages small group discussions and classroom observation The findings show that English medium policies in Africa do not give students any advantage in English over first language policies while the use of English discriminates against girls and rural children The book concludes that much education in Africa is a barrier rather than a bridge to learning because of the prevailing language ideology which has resulted in massive over estimation of the value of English While appropriate language policies alone will not solve education and development difficulties in Africa they do have a positive contribution to make The evidence presented here suggests they are failing to make that contribution

Enjoying the Song of Term: An Emotional Symphony within Teaching About Language In The Primary Years Roehampton Student Texts

In a global consumed by screens and the ceaseless chatter of fast interaction, the melodic beauty and mental symphony developed by the published term often diminish into the background, eclipsed by the relentless sound and disruptions that permeate our lives.
