Teaching-Learning Grammar via Cooperative Language Learning: Kombolcha Secondary School in Focus

Ashenafi Shimeles Shumiye*

English Language and Literature Department, Oda Bultum University, Chiro, Ethiopia

Abstract

This study is mainly concerned with the assessing challenges English teachers of Kombolcha Secondary School face in teaching grammar through cooperative language learning with particular reference to, grade 9. The data was gathered by four data gathering instruments questionnaire, interview, classroom observation, and text analysis. The data, which were obtained through a close-ended questionnaire, were analyzed and interpreted in the quantitative method, whereas the data which were gathered through interviews and classrooms observation were interpreted and analyzed in the qualitative method. Finding shows that lack of student centeredness, lack of being facilitators, inappropriateness of CLL in grammar teaching were the major factors that hamper teaching grammar using Cooperative Language Learning. All concerned bodies including teachers, students, society, Ministry of Education, and others should facilitate a condition to prepare supplementary materials which provide detailed information about cooperative activities in addition to textbooks; support might be in the form of finance to prepare other

This chapter presents the background of the study, the statement of the problem, the objectives of the study, the research questions, the significance of the study, the scope of the study, the limitations of the study, and the organization of the research paper.

1.1. Background of the Study

Education experts now view effective instruction as more learner-centered than teacher-centered [1]. Cooperative language learning (CLL), as described by Atkins, J. Hailom et.al is one strategy for developing a learner-centered classroom [2]. Additionally, learner-centered language classrooms allow students to advance their language proficiency while engaging with other students, as indicated by Students can improve their interpersonal skills, self-esteem, self-confidence, and other social skills during the engagement [2]. They can help them develop their social skills and optimistic outlook on learning.

One of the main tenets of cooperative learning in English as a foreign language instruction is educating students about grammatical ideas. Grammar instruction, thus, aids students in acquiring the abilities necessary for success in a variety of settings where English is spoken. The majority of students
