Social Protection in Developing Countries Katja Bender, Markus Kaltenborn, Christian Pfleiderer, 2013-09-02 Providing universal access to social protection and health systems for all members of society including the poor and vulnerable is increasingly considered crucial to international development debates. This is the first book to explore from an interdisciplinary and global perspective the reforms of social protection systems introduced in recent years by many governments of low and middle income countries. Although a growing body of literature has been concerned with the design and impact of social protection, less attention has been directed towards analyzing and explaining these reform processes themselves. Through case studies of African, Asian and Latin American countries, this book examines the global phenomenon of recent social protection reforms in low and middle income areas and how it differs across countries both in terms of scope and speed of institutional change. Exploring the major domestic and international factors affecting the political feasibility of social protection reform, the book outlines the successes and failures of recent reform initiatives. This invaluable book combines contributions from both academics and practitioner experts to give students, researchers and practitioners in the fields of social security, economics, law and political science an in depth understanding of political reform processes in developing countries.

Asian Social Work Ian Shaw, Rosaleen O'W, 2019-08-28 The countries of East and Southeast Asia taken as a whole display a laboratory of social and political conditions with individual countries presenting a variety of political, cultural and social characteristics. Some with one party state systems, others with stable liberal democracies and yet others with more fragile democratic systems. As such, the region presents a unique opportunity to examine the relationship between diverse national environments and social work education regimes. In this book, social work educators and theorists from around East and Southeast Asia provide accounts of the social work programs within the higher education systems of their respective countries and compare them to those of their neighbours. This is the first book to offer a structured account of how social work and social work education have emerged and finds their present place in the historical economic, political, urban, rural and higher education contexts of Southeast Asia and East Asia. Experts from the region assess the extent to which these countries' systems possess a collective coherence while examining the diversity among them.

Polarized Politics in South Korea Oul Han, 2021-04-21 South Korea is one of the most successful cases of democratization and economic growth in the world It shares one troubling problem with many other countries in recent years the visible increase of extreme polarization in the language and emotions of political topics However Korea has experienced this problem much earlier The history created weak parties that use deeply effective but harmful stories This combination creates a downwards spiral where the performance of moral superiority becomes the sharpest weapon The author points out that we need a standard for viewing this growing problem and argues that the traits of polarization in language are not well understood Using partisan newspaper text data from 1990 to 2014 and quantitative text analysis this book collects the most typical emotions and topics used by parties and partisans analyzing why they exist In the age of digital data and possibly restricted mobility this book is a proposal for what the author calls Computational Area Studies and Distant Fieldwork
