Social Solidarity And The Gift:

Social Solidarity and the Gift Aafke E. Komter, 2004-11-15 This book brings together two traditions of thinking about social ties sociological theory on solidarity and anthropological theory on gift exchange The purpose of the book is to explore both how theoretical traditions may complete and enrich each other and how they may illuminate transformations in solidarity The main argument supported by empirical illustrations is that a theory of solidarity should incorporate some of the core insights from anthropological gift theory The book presents a theoretical model covering both positive and negative selective and excluding aspects and consequences of solidarity It is concluded that over the past century solidarity has undergone a fundamental transformation from Durkheim's organic solidarity to a type of solidarity which can be called segmented separate autonomous social segments connecting with other segments no longer out of necessity and mutual dependency but on the basis of individual choice Solidarity has thereby become more noncommittal

Women and Gift Exchange in Eighteenth-Century Fiction Linda Zionkowski, 2016-05-26 This book analyzes why the most influential novelists of the long eighteenth century centered their narratives on the theory and practice of gift exchange Throughout this period fundamental shifts in economic theories regarding the sources of individual and national wealth along with transformations in the practices of personal and institutional charity profoundly altered cultural understandings of the gift's rationale purpose and function Drawing on materials such as sermons conduct books works of political philosophy and tracts on social reform Zionkowski challenges the idea that capitalist discourse was the dominant influence on the development of prose fiction Instead by shifting attention to the gift system as it was imagined and enacted in the formative years of the novel the volume offers an innovative understanding of how the economy of obligation shaped writers' portrayals of class and gender identity property and community Through theoretically informed readings of Richardson's Clarissa and Sir Charles Grandison Burney's Cecilia and The Wanderer and Austen's Mansfield Park and Emma the book foregrounds the issues of donation reciprocity indebtedness and gratitude as it investigates the conflicts between the market and moral economies and analyzes women's position at the center of these conflicts As this study reveals the exchanges that eighteenth century fiction prescribed for women confirm the continuing power and importance of gift transactions in the midst of an increasingly commercial culture The volume will be essential reading for scholars of the eighteenth century novel economic literary criticism women and gender studies and book history

An Analysis of Marcel Mauss's The Gift The Macat Team, 2017-07-05 Marcel Mauss's 1925 essay The Gift is an enduring classic of sociological and anthropological analysis by a thinker who is one of the founding fathers of modern anthropology The Gift exploits Mauss's high level analytical and interpretative skills to produce a brilliant investigation of the forms meanings and structures of gift giving across a range of societies Mauss along with many others had noted that in a wide range of societies especially those without monetary exchange or legal structures gift giving and receiving was carried out according to strict customs and unwritten laws What he sought to do in The Gift was to analyse the structures that governed how and when gifts were given received and reciprocated in order to grasp what implicit and unspoken reasons governed these structures He also wanted to apply his interpretative skills to asking what such exchanges meant in order to explore the implications his analysis might have for modern western cultures In Mauss's investigations it became clear that gift giving is in many cultures a crucial structural force binding people together in a web of reciprocal commitments generated by the laws of gifting Indeed he concluded gifts can be seen as the glue of society A

The Medieval Warrior Aristocracy Andrew Cowell, 2007 A major reconsideration of the relationship between warrior aristocrats epics and heroes in medieval culture The process of identity formation during the central Middle Ages 10th 12th centuries among the warrior aristocracy was fundamentally centered on the paired practices of gift giving and violent taking inextricably linked elements of the same basic symbolic economy These performative practices cannot be understood without reference to a concept of the sacred which anchored and governed the performances providing the goal and rationale of social and military action After focussing on anthropological theory social history and chronicles the author turns to the literary persona of the hero as seen in the epic He argues that the hero was specifically a narrative touchstone used for reflection on the nature and limits of aggressive identity formation among the medieval warrior elite the hero can be seen from a theoretical perspective as a supplement to his own society who both perfectly incarnated its values but also in attaining full integrity short circuited the very mechanisms of identity formation and reciprocity which undergirded the society The book shows that the relationship between warriors heroes and their opponents especially Saracens must be understood as a complex tri partite structure not a simple binary opposition in which the identity of each constituent depends on the other two ANDREW COWELL is Associate Professor of the Department of French and Italian and the Department of Linguistics at the University of Colorado Gift Exchange Grégoire Mallard, 2019-03-14 Examines gift exchanges as a foundational notion both in anthropology and in debates about international economic governance This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core

The Tsar's Happy Occasion Russell E. Martin, 2021-05-15 The Tsar's Happy Occasion shows how the vast ornate affairs that were royal weddings in early modern Russia were choreographed to broadcast powerful images of monarchy and dynasty Processions and speeches emphasized dynastic continuity and legitimacy Fertility rites blended Christian and pre-Christian symbols to assure the birth of heirs Gift exchanges created and affirmed social solidarity among the elite The bride performed rituals that integrated herself and her family into the inner circle of the court Using an array of archival sources Russell E. Martin demonstrates how royal weddings reflected and shaped court politics during a time of dramatic cultural and dynastic change As Martin shows the rites of passage in these ceremonies were dazzling displays of monarchical power unlike any other ritual at the Muscovite court And as dynasties came and went and the political culture evolved so too did wedding rituals Martin relates how Peter the Great first mocked then remade wedding rituals to symbolize and empower his efforts to westernize Russia After Peter the two branches of the Romanov dynasty used weddings to solidify their claims to the throne The Tsar's Happy Occasion offers a sweeping yet penetrating cultural history of the power of rituals and the rituals of power in early modern Russia

Sinews of the Nation Dan Lainer-Vos, 2013-04-03 Fundraising may not seem like an obvious lens through which to examine the process of nation building but in this highly original book Lainer Vos shows that fundraising mechanisms ranging from complex transnational gift giving systems to sophisticated national bonds are organizational tools that can be used to bind dispersed groups to the nation Sinews of the Nation treats nation building as a practical organizational accomplishment and examines how the Irish republicans and the Zionist movement secured financial support in the United States during the first half of the twentieth century Comparing the Irish and Jewish experiences whose trajectories of homeland diaspora relations were very different provides a unique perspective for examining how national movements use economic transactions to attach disparate groups to the national project By focusing on fundraising Lainer Vos challenges the common view of nation building as only a matter of forging communities by imagining away internal differences he shows that nation building also involves organizing relationships so as to allow heterogeneous groups to maintain their difference and yet contribute to the national cause Nation building is about much more than creating unifying symbols it is also about creating mechanisms that bind heterogeneous groups to the nation despite and through their differences
