Fletcher, Benjamin Mountford, Simon J. Potter, 2022-06-01 Connected Empires Connected Worlds Essays in Honour of John Darwin contains diverse essays on the expansion experience and decline of empires The volume is offered in honour of John Darwin's contribution to the study of empire and its endings Written by his former students and colleagues the book's chapters discuss topics from the nineteenth twentieth and twenty first centuries While each author has contributed according to their expertise they also reflect on how John's ideas and approaches continue to stimulate new work in disparate fields Touching on the experience of empire in Europe Africa Asia and Australasia the authors have engaged with concepts from across Darwin's writings including his earlier work on decolonisation decline and the dynamics of territorial expansion. As such, the work in this volume operates across a number of different scales of analysis from case studies of transnational communities, state formation and military intervention to imperial politics, inter-imperial comparison and global historical frameworks. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of The Journal of Imperial and Commonwealth History.

21st Century Sociology: A Reference Handbook Clifton D. Bryant, Dennis L. Peck, 2007
 Publisher Description Sociology at the London School of Economics and Political Science, 1904-2015 Christopher T. Husbands, 2019-03-14 This book provides an original overall account of the history of sociology at the London School of Economics and Political Science where the first sociology course as part of a conventional university degree programme in the UK was taught. Thus, the book is unique in its contribution to an important part of the history and development of sociology in the UK. The chapters discuss the names that at least until the post-war period are identified as central to the early phase of British sociology. Husbands documents the impact and influence of these leading figures through material in numerous previously little-used archives. Also explored are the culture of LSE Sociology students, their attitudes, political orientations and academic attainments. The reputation and influence of LSE Sociology on the general development of the subject in the UK are also assessed. The book will be of interest to sociology students and scholars wanting to know about the discipline's history as well as to those with a broader interest in higher education policy.

Subject Index of Modern Books Acquired British Library, 1961

Form Follows Fun Bruce Peter, 2013-05-13 Authoritative and readable, this excellent text is illustrated by a unique pictorial record of period architecture, surveys and examines how and why the architecture of pleasure related to the stylistic and ideological concerns of modernism in 1930s Britain. Responding to the current interest in modernism and packed with a substantial archive of high quality photographs and other documentation, it relates the professional, entrepreneurial and institutional infrastructures affecting the pleasure industry's architectural development and appearance in 1930s Britain. A broad range of buildings through which the general public first experienced Modernism are covered, including commercial holiday camps, cinemas and greyhound racing stadia, municipal and governmental projects, zoos, seaside pavilions, concert halls and imperial and international exhibitions. Arguing that the responses to modernism through the architecture of pleasure were conditioned by wider debates about the role of design in relation to high and mass culture, this book is an ideal resource for all those interested in architectural history and design in Britain between the wars.
