Social Support Networks Informal Helping In The Human Services:

Social Support Networks, 1983      Social Support Networks, 1983      Social Support Networks James K.

Whittaker, James Garbarino, This book offers for the first time a clear conception of what social support networks are why they are important how they are identified and sustained where they fit in an overall framework of human services and their limits and potential in selected fields of practice Individual chapters explore child adolescent and family services daycare and early childhood development divorced and stepfamilies schools delinquency prevention and treatment mental health service to the elderly development disabilities healthcare and health promotion and drug treatment The use of social support networks extended family friends neighbors and other informal helpers is an idea whose time has come in the human services field At a time when spiraling costs and popular sentiment weigh against any major expansion of services it is apparent that a service strategy based primarily on the notion of professional helping delivered on a case by case basis usually in a one to one relationship has serious limitations Professional response to this major work has been uniformly positive The editors have assembled a book of considerable importance brilliant in both scholarship and construction will appeal to a broad readership Gerald Euster University of South Carolina offers a much needed balance to the focus on individual and internal dynamics which has characterized social work education for several decades Eleanor Reardon Tolson University of Chicago Social Support Networks is a valuable contribution a unique original and authoritative book an exciting timely and definitely practice oriented book with a strong theoretical and research base Anthony N Maluccio University of Connecticut James K Whittaker is professor of social work at the University of Washington A former childcare worker therapist and administrator in residential childcare he has been a consultant to governmental and voluntary children s agencies throughout the United States James Garbarino is Elizabeth Lee Vincent Professor of Human Development in the College of Human Ecology at Cornell University He was president of the Erikson Institute for Advanced Study in Child Development Chicago Illinois from 1985 to 1994 He is the co author of Troubled Youth Troubled Families also available from AldineTransaction      Research Design for Social Work and the Human Services Jeane W. Anastas, 2000-01-28 Research Design for Social Work and the Human Services integrates a range of research techniques into a single epistemological framework and presents a balanced approach to the teaching of research methods in the helping professions Jeane W Anastas begins with a discussion of the different philosophical perspectives within which social research occurs and continues with problem formulation research design and methodological issues influencing data collection analysis and dissemination She presents both fixed quantitative and flexible qualitative methods of research granting legitimacy value utility and relevance to both styles of inquiry Utilizing complete case studies to illustrate different methodological approaches Research Design for Social Work and the Human Services integrates material on women and people of color and draws attention to the ways racism heterosexism sexism and classism affect the conceptualization and conduct of research Anastas not only exposes these biases but actively addresses the experiences needs and concerns of clients of both genders and different races ethnicities sexual orientations cultures and classes

Child Maltreatment Michael Rothert, Gary Cameron, 2013-01-11 Recognizing child maltreatment as a complex phenomenon requiring multifaceted responses this volume provides a current and comprehensive assessment of the problem and argues for an expanded conception of helping on the part of those who work with maltreated children their families and their communities Contributions follow a general outline that addresses current theory and models of practice and empirical knowledge regarding the problem intervention and outcomes Presenting an up to date and encompassing view of how to combat child abuse and neglect this book discusses the concerns of service providers as well as academics All the prevalent ways of responding to child maltreatment are addressed and each is discussed in terms of theory implementation and evidence for its effectiveness For use as an undergraduate or graduate level text for courses in child welfare sociology family studies and community psychology This text would also be insightful for professionals academics and policymakers concerned with child welfare

Social Work Treatment Francis J. Turner, 2011-03-15 First published in 1974 Social Work Treatment remains the most popular and trusted compendium of theories available to social work students and practitioners It explores the full range of theoretical approaches that drive social work treatment and knowledge development from psychoanalysis to crisis intervention This treasure trove of practice knowledge equips professionals with a broad array of theoretical approaches each of which shine a spotlight on a different aspect of the human condition Emphasizing the importance of a broad based theoretical approach to practice it helps the reader avoid the pitfalls of becoming overly identified with a narrow focus that limits their understanding of clients and their contexts This sweeping overview of the field untangles the increasingly complex problems ideologies and value sets that define contemporary social work practice The result is an essential A to Z reference that charts the full range of theoretical approaches available to social workers regardless of their setting or specialty

Human Behavior in the Social Environment from an African American Perspective Letha A See, 2013-04-03 In Human Behavior in the Social Environment from an African American Perspective leading black scholars come together to discuss complex human behavior problems faced by African Americans and to force the abandonment of conceptualization theories made without consideration of the Black experience Challenging you to engage in different thinking and develop new theories for addressing the needs of African Americans this book highlights the assets of black individuals families and communities and guides you through program interventions and public policies that strengthen and empower African Americans You will learn to enhance your clients coping strategies and resilience by factoring in their strengths rather than focusing on their weaknesses Human Behavior in the Social Environment from an African American Perspective contextualizes community behavior patterns gender roles and changing contemporary identities to challenge your assumptions about African American culture and communities and convince you to rethink your intervention strategies and methods To further help you fine tune your service delivery this book leads you through discussions on help seeking behaviors of young street males the association of sociocultural risk factors with suicides the use of emotive behavior therapy to help African Americans cope with the prospect of imminent death advocating for changes in institutions and systems which negatively impact the lives of the poor and the oppressed how social work has ignored one segment of the African American community young girls in urban settings psychological consequences of coming of age in a hostile environment Social workers community based groups policymakers and other helping professionals owe it to their clients to shrug off culturally incompetent services and care

Using Human Behavior in the Social Environment from an African American Perspective as a guide you will learn to redress your programs and policies with a sensitivity to the factors and mechanisms that maximize the buoyancy of disadvantaged groups over various stages of their life development Children and Families in the Social Environment James Garbarino, 2017-07-12 The first edition of this volume successfully applied Bronfenbrenner's micro systems taxonomy to childrearing and family life Emphasizing how forces in the environment influence children's behavior Garbarino has staked out an intermediate position between the psychoanalytic and the systems approach to human development Taking cognizance of new research and of changes in American society Garbarino has once again carefully analyzed the importance of children's social relationships For this wholly revised second edition he has incorporated a greater emphasis on ethnic cultural and racial issues

Involuntary Clients in Social Work Practice Andre Ivanoff, Betty J. Blythe, Tony Tripodi, 2024-11-01 First published in 1994 While not setting out to write a book about social policy Ivanoff Blythe and Tripodi seasoned and well known contributors to the spirited debate on the proper relationship of research and practice methods in direct services have nonetheless delivered much useful commentary on how those direct services resources ought best be deployed This book is to a clear call for commitment of skilled professional resources for those citizens whose serious and often multiple problems have already deeply involved them in public sector services

The Caring Relationship Hazel Qureshi, Alan Walker, 1989-10-13 This book takes a close look at family relationships at the end of the life cycle Based on a representative sample of people aged 75 or more in a major British city it investigates in depth what the caring relationship actually means to those elderly people and carers mostly family members who are involved on a day to day basis An important book for health and welfare professionals involved in planning and providing services

Environmental Practice in the Human Services Bernard Neugeboren, 2013-01-11 Environmental Practice in the Human Services points to the need for the human services to return to their historic mission of environmental change It moves beyond the more general conceptual emphasis on person in environment toward the development of an environmental practice technology based on an intervention model which prescribes specific micro and macro roles and functions It may open the way to recapturing the conceptual breadth which characterized the first 40 years of social work as a professional and occupational entity The ecological perspective in social work has fostered an interest in the impact of social environments on service consumers Environmental Practice in the Human Services tries to rectify the historical imbalance in the human services that has emphasized people changing methods giving secondary emphasis to environmental change. It instructs students preparing for practice in the human services as well as agency practitioners in the knowledge and skills necessary in environmental practice. Cases in environmental practice are used to illustrate how these skills are utilized in actual practice situations. The book's scope includes practice at the direct service administration planning and social policy levels; it integrates micro and macro practice and shows how these two levels of practice are interdependent. This enables human service practitioners to create and/or modify social environments to enhance the functioning of clients being served in human service programs. Topics covered include important skills in environmental practice including decisionmaking, negotiating and leadership, community practice and resource coordination, social support, the impact of organizational environments on practice, environmental practice for the chronically disabled. Author Neugeboren's approach is unique in its in-depth focus on environmental practice, applying concepts of social environment to specific practice roles. This practice-specific content, which provides tools needed for environmental practice, is in contrast to existing texts on the social environment which are very theoretical and not integrated with practice. He includes material from the field of social ecology which has not been included in existing texts. It shows how practitioners and administrators, planners and policymakers can facilitate and support each other's work. Reading Environmental Practice in the Human Services will enlighten students and practitioners with specific skills for impacting on different social environments to enhance client benefit. It tells how a direct service practitioner can determine which organizational environments are suitable for particular client needs in making agency referrals. It also provides administrators with information about designing, planning and managing agencies with functional organizational environments which achieve effective services.

Encyclopedia of Parenting Charles A.

Smith, 2013-04-03 Parenting receives growing amounts of attention from researchers and what was once considered chiefly an art is now also recognized for being a science. Our knowledge of parenting has increased significantly in the last few decades; new developments continue to happen daily. The Encyclopedia of Parenting provides in reference book format what we now know about parents, parenting and the parent-child relationship, synthesized in some 250 alphabetically arranged entries. Each entry is written by an expert contributor and provides an authoritative overview of a particular topic. Subjects covered include child activity, child outcomes, child states, parent behaviours, parental situations, external and community factors, systematic concerns, the transition to parenthood, available resources, persons who have added to our knowledge of the field. Entries draw on a wide range of disciplines including psychology, education and sociology. Each entry closes with a bibliography and the volume concludes with a selected list of works for further reading.

A Healthy Old Age Stephanie

Fallcreek, Molly Mettler, 1984-01-01 Provides the health care practitioner with information on how to design, implement and evaluate health promotion programs for the elderly.

A Healthy Old Age Stephanie Fallcreek, 1982

Human Services and the Media Edward Allan Brawley, 1995 This practical guide demonstrates how to work with newspapers, magazines, radio and television to promote social programs and to shape public policy It includes numerous examples of how cooperative efforts with the media have improved the public's understanding of the helping profession educated the community about social problems and spread preventive messages An informed and supportive public at large is critical to the success of programs promoting health and mental health and the mass media are the most powerful means of reaching the public Yet few human services professionals know how to tap into this power

Human Behavior Theory Roberta R. Greene, Nancy Kropf, 2017-07-12 As American society becomes increasingly diverse social workers must use a variety of human behavior frameworks to understand their clients culturally complex concerns This text applies specific human behavior theories to diversity practice They show how human behavior theory can be employed in interventions in the life problems of diverse client populations at the individual group social network and societal levels Several groups are examined They include minority groups ethnic groups women older adults members of certain social classes affected by economic and educational disadvantage especially those living in poverty people with developmental disabilities people of varying sexual and gender orientations and religious groups Case studies that illustrate social work practice in the area are highlighted The case studies include Social Work Practice within a Diversity Framework The Social Work Interview Symbolic Interactionism Social Work Assessment Meaning and Language Erikson's Eight Stages of Development Role Theory and Social Work Practice A Constructionist Approach Risk Resilience and Resettlement Addressing Diverse Family Forms Small Group Theory Natural Social Networks Power Factors in Social Work Practice This volume will be a fundamental resource for practitioners and an essential tool for training

Human Behavior Theory Roberta Greene, 2017-09-29 In recent years advocates for civil rights for minorities women and gays and lesbians have become more informed consumers of mental health services As a result social work practitioners need to prepare themselves to serve diverse constituencies for whom previously held behavioral and cultural assumptions have proven not to be universally applicable The purpose of Greene's book is to help students and practitioners better understand how social workers have used human behavior theories to more competently address variations in group and community membership within the social worker client encounter The book's approach is largely thematic Most of the chapters explore how particular assumptions of a human behavior theory psychoanalytic theory psychodynamic ego psychology theory systems theory behavioral theory symbolic interaction theory feminist theory constructionist theory small group theory and an ecological perspective have been used to answer issues related to cultural diversity The challenges and limitations of each theory's applications across varying client constituencies are discussed throughout What sorts of new conceptual issues for the practitioner of family services are raised in work with minority families for example or with lesbian families How does a specific theory help or not help in group specific interventions and evaluations Intended as a companion volume to the widely adopted human behavior text by Greene and Ephross Greene's new book fills the need for a wide synthetic reading of the recent literature

Home-Based Services for Troubled Children

Ira M. Schwartz,2016-02-01 There is mounting interest in services to strengthen families and if possible to keep them together preventing unnecessary and costly out of home placements Unfortunately although these programs are proliferating throughout the country many are developing without the benefit of existing historical conceptual and scholarly data information needed to make sound fiscal policy and programmatic decisions This book fills this critical void with a systematic examination of home based services for abused neglected delinquent and emotionally disturbed children and their families With the most authoritative research on the topic to date this book will be of interest to practitioners policymakers and child advocates

Restorative and Responsive Human Services Gale Burford,John Braithwaite,Valerie

Braithwaite,2019-03-04 In Restorative and Responsive Human Services Gale Burford John Braithwaite and Valerie Braithwaite bring together a distinguished collection providing rich lessons on how regulation in human services can proceed in empowering ways that heal and are respectful of human relationships and legal obligations The human services are in trouble combining restorative justice with responsive regulation might redeem them renewing their well intended principles Families provide glue that connects complex systems What are the challenges in scaling up relational practices that put families and primary groups at the core of health education and other social services This collection has a distinctive focus on the relational complexity of restorative practices How do they enable more responsive ways of grappling with complexity than hierarchical and prescriptive human services Lessons from responsive business regulation inform a re imagining of the human services to advance wellbeing and reduce domination Readers are challenged to re examine the perverse incentives and contradictions buried in policies and practices How do they undermine the capacities of families and communities to solve problems on their own terms This book will interest those who harbor concerns about the creep of domination into the lives of vulnerable citizens It will help policymakers and researchers to re focus human services to fundamental outcomes at the foundation of sustainable democracies This book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license
