Social Security Household And Family Dynamics In Aging Societies:

Social Security, Household, and Family Dynamics in Ageing Societies Jean-Pierre Gonnot, Nico Keilman, Christopher Prinz, 2012-12-06 Many industrialized countries are facing large problems with their public pension systems in the 21st century An unfavourable age distribution with lower population shares in working ages and increasing shares and numbers of elderly persons in the future will lead under current pension systems to a drop in contributions and at the same time to sharply rising amounts of benefits paid This book analyzes the impact of dynamics in age structure and marital status composition on future public pension expenditures in twelve industrialized countries It shows that there is no demographic response to population ageing at the horizon 2030 Neither an increase in fertility nor an inflow of migrants can rejuvenate national populations unless fertility and or migration reach unrealistically high levels Therefore the overall conclusion of this book is that demographic variables are of limited help to relieve the burden of future public pension expenditures Substantial reductions of the public pension burden have to be sought in socioeconomic measures and not in adjusting demographic conditions The book includes various demographic and pension scenarios for pension costs in the coming decades for Austria Canada the Czech and Slovak Republics Finland France Germany Hungary Italy the Netherlands Norway Poland and Sweden Not only old age pensions but also disability and survivor pensions have been investigated Variant projections were calculated for changes in demographic labour force and pension system variables In addition separate case studies for three countries deal with a pension system in Austria in which benefits depend on the number children ever born the impact of household dynamics on social security in the Netherlands not just marriage and marriage dissolution and with the consequences of economic growth for public pensions in Sweden

Welfare in an Idle Society? Bernd Marin, 2017-10-24 The modern welfare state is indeed one of the greatest achievements of the post war 20th century With its key aims of eradicating the five giant social ills of Want Ignorance Disease Squalor and Idleness it aimed to providing a minimum standard of living with all people of working age paying a weekly contribution in return benefits would be paid to anyone who was sick unemployed retired or widowed The modern welfare state therefore is about maintaining a delicate equilibrium between dependent social groups on the one hand and the active working classes on the other In the case of old age security this balance is being achieved or not by the so called Generation Contract This social pact is more of an implicit unwritten and unspecified social contract This ground breaking book demonstrates how countries are addressing population ageing challenges in depth using the case study of Austria to gain the required complexity and differentiation in a comparative European framework of empirical evidence This is a broad social science study in political economy and sociology not an economic analysis Though focusing on pensions it centres on the im balance between work and non work issues of health work ability employability and benefit receipt from old age security to disability allowance It will be required reading for all sociologists and social policy experts and academics working within this area
