Social Services In British Industry:

Social Services in British Industry A. F. Young, 2013-10-08 This is Volume XII of a series of eighteen on Public Policy Welfare and Social Work Originally published in 1968 The title Social Services in British Industry might seem a contradiction in terms Industry is concerned with productive processes and the provision and exchange of goods and services which mankind has developed to meet his economic needs The social services are mostly provided where the individual has been unable for one reason or another to realise his full potential or even achieve sufficient development to make a reasonable life possible We think of industry in terms of organisation involving capital labour raw materials and finished products The social services on the other hand are thought of in terms of poverty ill health degradation and squalor Thus the concepts would appear poles apart different worlds This book looks at this relationship further Labor and Industry in Britain ,1951 A

Industrial Relations in the NHS Roger V. Seifert, 2013-11-11 This is the first book yet written on industrial relations in the NHS and it has been completed at a time of radical and rapid change Some of the material particularly in the final chapter reflects first thoughts about the impact of the new system on industrial relations The book arose from my teaching experiences with health service practitioners from several of the NHS trade unions and professional associations Many of these activists as well as managers expressed frustration that there was no single source about some of the issues which concerned them This book is the result of their anxieties Throughout I have assumed that the main thrust of government policy towards the NHS at least since the early 1980s has been to sell off important sections of the service to the private sector There is I believe strong evidence for this proposition My argument however is based not only on the evidence of government's will to privatize but also on the behaviour of ministers senior civil servants and senior NHS managers which adds up to a set of policies and practices which together allow the point that government runs the NHS as if it was going to sell it A Bibliography of Industrial Relations G. S. Bain, Gillian B. Woolven, G. B. Woolven, 1979-03-29 Reference book comprising a bibliography aiming to bring together secondary source interdisciplinary material on labour relations in the UK
