Wilson, Maria Colavito, Djoymi Baker, 2014-03-21 Soon after film came into existence the term epic was used to describe productions that were lengthy spectacular live with action and often filmed in exotic locales with large casts and staggering budgets The effort and extravagance needed to mount an epic film paid off handsomely at the box office for the genre became an immediate favorite with audiences Epic films survived the tribulations of two world wars and the Depression and have retained the basic characteristics of size and glamour for more than a hundred years Length was and still is one of the traits of the epic though monolithic three to four hour spectacles like Gone with the Wind 1939 and Lawrence of Arabia 1962 have been replaced today by such franchises as the Harry Potter films and the Lord of the Rings trilogy Although the form has evolved during many decades of existence its central elements have been retained refined and modernized to suit the tastes of every new generation The Encyclopedia of Epic Films

Giles, 2021-02-11 The theme of The Planetary Clock is the representation of time in postmodern culture and the way temporality as a global phenomenon manifests itself differently across an antipodean axis To trace postmodernism in an expansive spatial and temporal arc from its formal experimentation in the 1960s to environmental concerns in the twenty first century is to describe a richer and more complex version of this cultural phenomenon Exploring different scales of time from a Southern Hemisphere perspective with a special emphasis on issues of Indigeneity and the Anthropocene The Planetary Clock offers a wide ranging revisionist account of postmodernism reinterpreting literature film music and visual art of the post 1960 period within a planetary framework By bringing the culture of Australia and New Zealand into dialogue with other Western narratives it suggests how an antipodean impulse involving the transposition of the world into different spatial and temporal dimensions has long been an integral if generally occluded aspect of postmodernism Taking its title from a Florentine clock designed in 1510 to measure worldly time alongside the rotation of the planets The Planetary Clock ranges across well known American postmodernists John Barth Toni Morrison to more recent science fiction writers Octavia Butler Richard Powers while bringing the US tradition into juxtaposition with both its English Philip Larkin Ian McEwan and Australian Les Murray Alexis Wright counterparts By aligning cultural postmodernism with music Messiaen Ligeti Birtwistle the visual arts Hockney Blackman Fiona Hall and cinema Rohmer Haneke Tarantino this volume enlarges our understanding of global postmodernism for the twenty first century
