Social Support Networks James K.

Whittaker, James Garbarino, This book offers for the first time a clear conception of what social support networks are why they are important how they are identified and sustained where they fit in an overall framework of human services and their limits and potential in selected fields of practice Individual chapters explore child adolescent and family services daycare and early childhood development divorced and stepfamilies schools delinquency prevention and treatment mental health service to the elderly development disabilities healthcare and health promotion and drug treatment The use of social support networks extended family friends neighbors and other informal helpers is an idea whose time has come in the human services field At a time when spiraling costs and popular sentiment weigh against any major expansion of services it is apparent that a service strategy based primarily on the notion of professional helping delivered on a case by case basis usually in a one to one relationship has serious limitations Professional response to this major work has been uniformly positive The editors have assembled a book of considerable importance brilliant in both scholarship and construction will appeal to a broad readership Gerald Euster University of South Carolina offers a much needed balance to the focus on individual and internal dynamics which has characterized social work education for several decades Eleanor Reardon Tolson University of Chicago Social Support Networks is a valuable contribution a unique original and authoritative book an exciting timely and definitely practice oriented book with a strong theoretical and research base Anthony N Maluccio University of Connecticut James K Whittaker is professor of social work at the University of Washington A former childcare worker therapist and administrator in residential childcare he has been a consultant to governmental and voluntary children s agencies throughout the United States James Garbarino is Elizabeth Lee Vincent Professor of Human Development in the College of Human Ecology at Cornell University He was president of the Erikson Institute for Advanced Study in Child Development Chicago Illinois from 1985 to 1994 He is the co author of Troubled Youth Troubled Families also available from AldineTransaction Support Networks in a Caring Community J.A. Yoder, J.M.L. Jonker, R.A.B. Leaper, 2012-12-06 The historic Binnenhof seat of the Dutch government in The Hague provided the setting January 1985 for a conference in which participants from eleven countries met to consider the theme Support networks in a caring community research and policy fact and fiction At the outset conference leadership provided by Professors J M L Jonker The Netherlands and R A B Leaper United Kingdom urged the conferees not to allow their enthusiasm for informal support networks to combine with the pervasive awareness of the failures of welfare states into a simplistic stance of advocacy with a consequent appeal to politicians to direct state funds accordingly Legitimate criticisms of the responses of welfare states to the needs of citizens were to be seen as the context for discussion not the substance of conference deliberations More specifically if it is now apparent to many people that governmental assistance of individuals with social needs can lead to an undesirable dependency on the part of increasingly passive citizens that awareness does not lend logical support to an ideological position that governmental expenditures are pernicious per se to be replaced as rapidly as possible by a return to reliance on self family friends and associations that are developed voluntarily and financed by those who are sufficiently interested

Environmental Practice in the Human Services Bernard Neugeboren, 2013-01-11 Environmental Practice in the Human Services points to the need for the human services to return to their historic mission of environmental change It moves beyond the more general conceptual emphasis on person in environment toward the development of an environmental practice technology based on an intervention model which prescribes specific micro and macro roles and functions It may open the way to recapturing the conceptual breadth which characterized the first 40 years of social work as a professional and occupational entity The ecological perspective in social work has fostered an interest in the impact of social environments on service consumers Environmental Practice in the Human Services tries to rectify the historical imbalance in the human services that has emphasized people changing methods giving secondary emphasis to environmental change It instructs students preparing for practice in the human services as well as agency practitioners in the knowledge and skills necessary in environmental practice Cases in environmental practice are used to illustrate how these skills are utilized in actual practice situations The book s scope includes practice at the direct service administration planning and social policy levels it integrates micro and macro practice and shows how these two levels of practice are interdependent This enables human service practitioners to create and or modify social environments to enhance the functioning of clients being served in human service programs Topics covered include important skills in environmental practice including decisionmaking negotiating and leadership community practice and resource coordination social support the impact of organizational environments on practice environmental practice for the chronically disabled Author Neugeboren s approach is unique in its in depth focus on environmental practice applying concepts of social environment to specific practice roles This practice specific content which provides tools needed for environmental practice is in contrast to existing texts on the social environment which are very theoretical and not integrated with practice He includes material from the field of social ecology which has not been included in existing texts It shows how practitioners and administrators planners and policymakers can facilitate and support each other s work Reading Environmental Practice in the Human Services will enlighten students and practitioners with specific skills for impacting on different social environments to enhance client benefit It tells how a direct service practitioner can determine which organizational environments are suitable for particular client needs in making agency referrals It also provides administrators with information about designing planning and managing agencies with functional organizational environments which achieve effective services

Turner, 2017-03-23 First published in 1974 Social Work Treatment remains the most popular and trusted compendium of theories available to social work students and practitioners It explores the full range of theoretical approaches that drive social work treatment and knowledge development from psychoanalysis to crisis intervention A treasure trove of practice knowledge the text equips professionals with a broad array of theoretical approaches each of which shine a spotlight on a different aspect of the human condition Emphasizing the importance of a broad based theoretical approach to practice it helps readers avoid the pitfalls of becoming overly identified with a narrow focus that limits their understanding of clients and their contexts This sweeping overview of the field untangles the increasingly complex problems ideologies and value sets that define contemporary social work practice The result is an essential A to Z reference that charts the full range of theoretical approaches available to social workers regardless of their setting or specialty the interface between families and the broader ecology or ecosystem of the child the approach is not new but has not been widely adopted due to the lack of illustrative material available for practitioners Through an approach more descriptive and explanatory than empirical the author shows the clinician or other child care professional why the child s environment is crucial and provides techniques to draw people in the child s environment into the healing process Handbook of Mental Health Consultation ,1986 Home-Based Services for Troubled Children Ira M.
