Cross-Cultural Psychology Prof. Dr. Bilal Semih Bozdemir, To begin with it is essential to define migration and acculturation Migration refers to the movement of individuals from one geographical location to another often for reasons such as economic opportunity political instability or familial connections Acculturation on the other hand is the process through which individuals adopt adapt to or integrate aspects of a new culture This transformation may include changes in language social behaviors belief systems and daily routines The acculturation process can be both voluntary and involuntary and the degree to which individuals immerse themselves in the new culture can vary widely One of the primary challenges faced by migrants is the stress associated with the transition from one cultural framework to another This transition can manifest in various ways leading to a phenomenon often referred to as culture shock Culture shock encompasses feelings of disorientation anxiety and frustration stemming from the differences between one s original and new cultural settings Symptoms may include social isolation language barriers and difficulty accessing social support networks Such stressors can contribute to an increased risk of mental health disorders including anxiety and depression particularly in the initial stages following migration

Do Parents Matter? Robert A. LeVine, Sarah LeVine, 2016-09-06 When it comes to parenting more isn t always better but it is always more tiring In Japan a boy sleeps in his parents bed until age ten but still shows independence in all other areas of his life In rural India toilet training begins one month after infants are born and is accomplished with little fanfare In Paris parents limit the amount of agency they give their toddlers In America parents grant them ever more choices independence and attention Given our approach to parenting is it any surprise that American parents are too frequently exhausted Over the course of nearly fifty years Robert and Sarah LeVine have conducted a groundbreaking worldwide study of how families work They have consistently found that children can be happy and healthy in a wide variety of conditions not just the effort intensive cautious environment so many American parents drive themselves crazy trying to create While there is always another news article or scientific fad proclaiming the importance of some factor or other it s easy to miss the bigger picture that children are smarter more resilient and more independent than we give them credit for Do Parents Matter is an eye opening look at the world of human nurture one with profound lessons for the way we think about our families
