Through both historical and contemporary case studies the contributors examine how race and ethnicity affect the places we live, work and visit, illustrating along the way the behaviors and concepts that comprise the modern ethnic and racial geography of immigrant and minority groups. While primarily addressed to students and scholars in the fields of racial and ethnic geography, these case studies will be accessible to anyone interested in race-place connections, race-ethnicity boundaries, the development of racialization and the complexity of human settlement patterns and landscapes that make up the United States and Puerto Rico. Taken together they show how individuals and culture groups through their ideologies, social organization and social institutions reflect both local and regional processes of place-making and place-remaking that occur within and beyond the continental United States.
