The New Frontiers Of Aging:

The New Frontiers of Aging Wilma Thompson Donahue, Clark Tibbitts, 1957 New Frontiers in Cognitive Aging Roger A. Dixon, Lars Bäckman, Lars-Göran Nilsson, 2004 With an ever increasing population of aging people in the western world it is more crucial than ever that we try to understand how and why cognitive competence breaks down with advancing age why do some people follow normal patterns of cognitive change while others follow a path of progressive decline with neurodegenerative diseases such as Alzheimer's What can be done to prevent cognitive decline or to avoid neurodegenerative diseases The answers if they come will not emerge from research within one discipline but from work being done across a range of scientific and medical specialities This volume brings together leading experts from a range of fields studying cognitive aging including neuroscience pharmacology health genetics sensory biology and epidemiology Unlike other books in this area this book is more about new frontiers than past research and accomplishments Recently cognitive aging research has taken several new directions linking with and benefiting from rapid technological and theoretical advances in these neighbouring disciplines This book provides unique interdisciplinary coverage of the topic With each chapter including commentaries from specialists in related fields the book provides an integrative study of the topic For those within the fields of psychology cognitive neuroscience and geriatrics this volume will make an important contribution in furthering our understanding of a problem that affects us all *The New Frontiers of Aging. New Frontiers of Freedom from the Alps to the Aegean Edward Alexander Powell, 1920 The New Frontiers of Aging Wilma Thompson Donahue, Clark Tibbitts, 1957 Narratives of Positive Aging Amia Lieblich, 2014-06-18

In Narratives of Positive Aging Amia Lieblich presents a qualitative study that explores the life narratives of elderly men and women who engage in practices of positive aging. They belong to a spontaneous community that assembles daily early in the morning on a beach near Tel Aviv, Israel. At the seaside, the elders practice various outdoor sports and converse over coffee at the local café. Based on their narratives procured by individual open-ended interviews and the author's participant observation, the book explores the impact of routine physical activity and social relationships on successful aging. Lieblich additionally presents an analysis of the tension-minimizing discourse adopted at the café and the pleasant bubble-like environment it fosters amongst the community members. Finally, the book debates the adaptive role of narrating one's life story and its perceived manifestation of wisdom. A combination of complete life stories and extracts of conversations recorded on the beach color every chapter. These texts are complimented and elucidated by a variety of academic claims, theories, and findings concerning narratives and aging. This book, based on an Israeli field study, may be viewed both as a local case study as well as a lesson relevant to aging everywhere.
