The New Adoption Maze and how to Get Through it Fred Powledge, 1985-01-01 Surveys the process of adoption and offers advice on coping with the difficulties associated with adopting a child

Adoptive Parenthood in Hong Kong Grace Po-Chee Ko, 2017-07-05 This title was first published in 2001 A systematic study of non relative adoption in Hong Kong It examines the changing profile of non relative adoption between 1987 and 1993 from the author s analysis of 486 case files Characteristics of the adoptive parents adopted children and their birth parents are presented in descriptive statistics Three predictors of adoption stresses are identified Adjustment in adoption and threat to parental entitlement were positively related to adoption stress parental education was negatively related to it Apart from being more stressful Chinese adopters were found to be significantly different from non Chinese for having a lower level of acknowledgement of difference They are more worrisome over the relationship with birth parents are less ready to reveal adoption have better adoptive parent child relationship and possess higher levels of personal qualities The findings of the study suggest that a post legal adoption service is urgently needed

Parental Development Jack Demick, Krisanne Bursik, Rosemarie DiBiase, 2014-02-25 This volume seeks to identify and define the parameters of a relatively new problem area parental development Drawing on the grand developmental theories of Sigmund Freud Lawrence Kohlberg Jean Piaget Lev Vygotsky Heinz Werner and their descendants this book has the potential to generate an area of common concern for those interested in either child adolescent or adult development through the novel application of developmental principles and considerations to the ecological context of parenting To that end this volume brings together theory and research from the subfields of adult and child adolescent development Chapter authors place the problem area of parental development in theoretical context and examine selected psychological part processes implicated by focusing on cognitive and psychosocial development The authors then deal with a range of issues that are perhaps less traditional and or more in line with the complex character of everyday life That is they utilize either relatively novel comparison groups or treat parents at later stages of development rather than those in young adulthood as is often the case Finally the authors uncover both similarities and differences among their theoretical perspectives with an eye toward delineating some possible future research directions
