The New Jerusalem Planning And Politics:

The New Jerusalem Arthur Kutcher, 1975 Politics and Planning in the Holy City Ira Sharkansky, 2017-07-28 Jerusalem is not just another city that illustrates the conflict between interests of professional planners and competing political perspectives. It is the Holy City with a history of some 3 000 years. Moreover, numerous layers of historical remains have importance for intense and competitive religious and national interests. Israelis claim it as the capital of their country and Palestinians want it or part of it as the capital of their not yet created state. Jerusalem is also a place where more than 700 000 people live and the center of a metropolitan area with more than twice that number. Along with religious and national interests, there are the customary conflicts between what various groups, property developers, politicians, professional planners, neighborhood residents, and environmental activists want to do with the land. Politics and Planning in the Holy City describes and analyzes the tensions between politics and planning. The authors tackle the economic, social, and political contexts that shape conflicts. Such problems include deciding what should be called Jerusalem and difficulties surrounding the construction of a defense barrier to protect Israelis from Palestinian terrorists in the framework of a multicultural city where 30 to 40 percent of its residents are Palestinians. There is dissent over locating rail lines to the city as some interests want them here, there, or nowhere, and over building a light rail line within a city already crowded and beset with conflicting interests. The creation of a football stadium is another venue for conflict as many religious Jews view sports as a threat to their way of life. Issues include locating a site for housing new immigrants as few Jerusalemites want large numbers of newcomers in their neighborhoods and deciding which sites merit preservation in a city with many deserving candidates but severely limited resources. This volume will attract urban specialists as well as those concerned with larger p

The Politics of Planting Shaul Ephraim Cohen, 1993-06 On the open landscape of Israel and the West Bank where pine and cypress forests grow alongside olive groves, tree planting has become symbolic of conflicting claims to the land. Palestinians cultivate olive groves as a vital agricultural resource while the Israeli government has made restoration of mixed growth forests a national priority. Although both sides plant for a variety of purposes, both have used tree planting to assert their presence on and claim to disputed land. Shaul Ephraim Cohen has conducted an unprecedented study of planting in the region and the control of land it signifies. In The Politics of Planting, he provides historical background and examines both the politics behind Israel's afforestation policy, its consequences. Focusing on the open land surrounding Jerusalem and four Palestinian villages outside the city, this study offers a new perspective on the conflict over land use in a region where planting has become a political tool. For the valuable data it presents, collected from field work previously unpublished documents and interviews, and the insight it provides into this political struggle, this will be an important book for anyone studying the Israeli Palestinian conflict The Struggle for Jerusalem's Holy Places Wendy Pullan, Maximilian Sternberg, Lefkos Kyriacou, Craig Larkin, Michael Dumper, 2013-11-20 The Struggle for Jerusalem's Holy Places investigates the role of architecture and urban identity in relation to the political economy of the city and its wider state context seen through the lens of the holy places Reflecting the broad disciplinary backgrounds of the authors this book provides perspectives from architecture urbanism and politics and provides in depth investigations of historical ethnographic and policy related case studies The research is substantiated by fieldwork carried out in Jerusalem over the past ten years as part of the ESRC Large Grants project Conflict in Cities By analysing new dynamics of radicalisation through land seizure the politicisation of parklands and tourism the strategic manipulation of archaeological and historical narratives and material culture and through examination of general appropriation of Jerusalem's varied rituals memories and symbolism for factional uses the book reveals how possibilities of co existence are seriously threatened in Jerusalem Shedding new light on the key role played by everyday urban life and its spatial settings for any future political agreements about the city and its religious sites this book is a useful reference work for students and scholars of Middle East Studies Architecture Religion and Urban Studies Living Together Separately Michael Romann, Alex Weingrod, 2014-07-14 Much has been written about the religious and political conflicts of contemporary Jerusalem and about the harsh realities of the intifada But while analysts probe the violence in the reunited city its residents must go about their daily affairs Focusing on the conduct of everyday life rather than on ideology Living Together Separately provides a rare look at the complex networks of practical relations developed by Jews and Arabs in over two decades of Israeli control of the city The work begins with a brief historical review of Jerusalem as an Arab Jewish city Then combining the perspectives of urban geography and social anthropology it addresses a wide range of questions How does the use of urban space and urban systems reflect both segregation and integration How do ethnic identities influence interactions in adjoining neighborhoods in workplaces and in a hospital What rules govern Arab Jewish contacts in business consumer and political settings In the final chapter the authors evaluate the Jerusalem situation in comparison with conditions in other deeply divided cities and in light of the intifada Long time residents of Jerusalem Romann and Weingrod seek to grasp the variety of day to day exchanges without preconceptions and from the viewpoints of all participants Michael Romann and Alex Weingrod are my pick to serve on a jury trying a very tangled case Fouad Ajami School of International Studies The Johns Hopkins University Originally published in 1991 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Grove Encyclopedia of Islamic Art & Architecture: Three-Volume Set Jonathan Bloom, Sheila
