"All your long, lonely years
Have been spent in not the least, you will not, who would not have remembered to let all the beautiful and precious things that are in the world be forgotten to you."

The Art of Growing Older Wayne C. Booth, 1996-12-15 Culled chiefly from great literary works this unusual compendium of prose and poetry excerpts highlights the physical and emotional aspects of aging Although Booth The Rhetoric of Fiction age 71 includes such cheery banal verse as I Haven't Lost My Marbles Yet Minnie Hodapp he has tailored this collection to encompass the unpleasant truths about aging William Butler Yeats's Sailing to Byzantium and excerpts from Simone de Beauvoir's The Coming of Age offer realistic assessments of the perils and possible consolations of aging The thoughtful commentary with which Booth connects the selections reminds readers that physical decay and fear of death are conditions common to us all This provocative collection braces rather than comforts

Aging and Identity Sara M. Deats, Lagretta Lenker, 1999-04-30 Viewing artistic works through the lens of both contemporary gerontological theory and postmodernist concepts the contributing scholars examine literary treatments cinematic depictions and artistic portraits of aging from Shakespeare to Hemingway from Horton Foote to Disney from Rembrandt to Alice Neale while also comparing the attitudes toward aging in Native American African American and Anglo American literature The examples demonstrate that long before gerontologists endorsed a Janus faced model of aging artists were celebrating the diversity of the elderly challenging the bio medical equation of senescence with inevitable senility Underlying all of this discussion is the firm conviction that cultural texts construct as well as encode the conventional perceptions of their society that literature the arts and the media not only mirror society's mores but can also help to create and enforce them

Cheal, Professor of Department of Sociology David Cheal, 2002-01-01 Contributors question whether an aging society is necessarily inferior or problematic compared with the recent past cautioning that exaggerated concerns about population aging can be harmful to rational policy making      Bioethics and the Character of Human Life Gilbert Meilaender, 2020-05-18 In the essays collected here Gilbert Meilaender invites readers to reflect upon some of the bioethical issues that are important for all of us The essays treat bioethics less as a discipline confined to a few experts than as a deeply humanistic set of concerns that inevitably draws us into religious and metaphysical issues From reflections on his experience as a member of the President's Council on Bioethics to the way in which Christian trinitarian teaching has shaped what it means to be a person from life's beginning to its ending these essays offer readers a chance to think about matters of fundamental human significance      Social

Integration in the Second Half of Life Karl Pillemer, Phyllis Moen, Elaine Wethington, Nina Glasgow, 2003-05-01 Social scientists use the term social integration to refer to individuals' connections with others in their environments. The concept and its consequences have been the subject of considerable study. Many researchers have asserted that meaningful and enduring ties to other persons serve as a buffer against stress and thereby promote physical and mental health. The results are especially pronounced for older persons. Social Integration in the Second Half of Life presents integrative reviews of theory and research on this topic. The editors and contributors all currently or previously affiliated with the Cornell Gerontology Research Institute also present new empirical findings of research done at their center. The first section of the book discusses basic theory and principles of social integration in later life and its implications for health. The second largest section examines specific issues: retirement, driving, family support, housing, neighbors. The third section addresses interventions to promote social integration: transportation, volunteering, and peer support for dementia caregivers. Throughout, the authors focus on the diverging influences of social integration and its converse, social isolation in later life. Human

Development Grace J. Craig, Don Baucum, 1999 Designed for students from a wide range of backgrounds, this text takes a chronological and interdisciplinary approach to human development. With its focus on context and culture, the 8 E illustrates that the status of human development is inextricably embedded in a study of complex and changing cultures. Clickety

Clack Joy S. McDiarmid, 2010-10-06 Clickety Clack is Joy McDiarmid's self-portrait of bipolar mental illness and one of the most ambiguous sexual identities imaginable for a woman coming of age in the 1950s. Amidst gender and sexuality confusion, this Winnipeg woman began to look for romantic love and sexual fulfillment, sometimes wanting to dress as a man, sometimes as a woman, sometimes attracted to men, sometimes to women. In candid accounts of this paralyzing complexity, which McDiarmid tried valiantly to understand and express despite oppressive social stigmas and parental strictures, her insights about human sexuality and living the lie are startling even in this age of open commentary about sex. Along primitive frontiers of treatment for bipolar disorders and dramas of shock therapy in psychiatric wards, entire years of McDiarmid's life would slip by even as earlier years were being erased from her memory. Yet there came triumphant accomplishments in her competitive and stimulating world of advertising, university work, private enterprise, photography, travel, touring in her MG sports car, skilful tennis, and love. Such juxtaposed experiences of despair and defiant courage, supplemented at the end of each chapter with medical commentary by Joy's psychiatrist, Dr. Frances Edye, make Clickety Clack a rare road map to life.

Christian Dying George Kalantzis, Matthew Levering, 2018-07-24 We human beings are mortal. Our lives in this world inevitably terminate in death. This reality, however, need not cause us to despair, since Jesus Christ has gone before us into the far country of death, giving us hope that this defining feature of our earthly lives is not the end but instead is an entrance into Christ's presence and a path to the fullness of the Spirit's new creation in which God will be all in all. Christian Dying: Witnesses from the Tradition is a collection of essays containing reflections from Christian authors, whether Catholic

Orthodox or Protestant on the meaning and appropriation of Christian hope in the face of death in conversation with a number of great voices from the Christian tradition CONTRIBUTORS Michel Rene Barnes John C Cavadini Marc Cortez Brian E Daley S J Paul L Gavriluk Matthew Levering David Luy Mark McIntosh Gilbert Meilaender Cyril O Regan Marcus Plested Brent Waters
