Reporting from the Wars 1850 - 2015 Barry Turner, Daniel Barredo Ibáñez, Steven James Grattan, 2019-07-05 From the foundations of the world's first great empires to the empires of today war has preoccupied human civilisation for as many as 4000 years It has fascinated horrified thrilled confused inspired and disgusted mankind since records began Provoking such a huge range of emotions and reactions and fulfilling all the elements of newsworthiness it is hardly surprising that war makes good news Modern technological advancements such as the camera and television brought the brutality of war into the homes and daily lives of the public No longer a far away and out of sight affair the public's ability to see what was happening on the frontline changed not only how wars were fought but why they were fought Even when a war is considered popular the involvement of the press and the weight of public opinion has led to criticisms that have transformed modern warfare almost in equal measure to the changes brought about by weapon technology War reporting seeks to look beyond the official story to understand the very nature of conflict whilst acknowledging that it is no longer simply good versus evil This edited volume presents a unique insight into the work of the war correspondent and battlefield photographer from the earliest days of modern war reporting to the present It reveals how influenced by the changing face of modern warfare the work of the war correspondent has been significantly altered in style method and practice By combining historical analysis with experiences of modern day war reporting this book provides an important contribution to the understanding of this complicated profession which will be of interest to journalists academics and students alike *World War II & the media. Crerar's Lieutenants Geoffrey Hayes, 2017-07-12 In 1943 General Harry Crerar penned a memorandum in which he noted that there was still much confusion as to what constitutes an Officer His words reflected the army's preoccupation with creating an ideal officer who would not only meet the immediate demands of war but also be able to conform to notions of social class and masculinity Drawing on a wide range of sources and exploring the issue of leadership through new lenses this book looks at how the army selected and trained its junior officers after 1939 to embody the new ideal It finds that these young men through the mentors they copied the correspondence they left even the songs they sang practised a temperate heroism that distinguished them from the idealized heroic visions of officership from the First World War Fascinating and highly original this book sheds new light on the challenges many junior officers faced during the Second World War not only on the battlefield but from Canadians often conflicted views about social class and gender
