The Nasty Girl:

New York Magazine, 1990-11-05 New York Magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country. With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion, the magazine's consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea. The nasty girl, 2011

The Claims of Memory Caroline Alice Wiedmer, 1999 Over a half a century after World War II, Germany and France still struggle to understand the Holocaust and to confront their roles in the tragedy. Through an interpretation of a wide array of contemporary cultural texts including memorials and memorial sites, museums and exhibits, national commemorations, books, and films, Caroline Wiedmer traces the evolution of an often conflicted postwar politics of memory in these two nations. Her analyses of sites of memory and of policies and national debates reveal the two countries' deep seated ambivalence in the face of a desire to forget the horrors of the Holocaust and the need to remember them. Among the issues Wiedmer examines are France's emerging sense of accountability and the fierce conflicts generated by the Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Europe to be built in Berlin. In her detailed account of how the Nazis took over a ready made system of internment camps built by the French before World War II and in her discussion of the uses to which the Sachsenhausen concentration camp was put by both the Soviet and the East German governments after the war, Wiedmer uncovers disturbing patterns of recurrence that painfully complicate France's and Germany's relationships to the Holocaust itself and to the act of commemoration. The author also examines Art Spiegelman's Maus and Michael Verhoeven's film The Nasty Girl. The Nasty Girl Luis Trelles, 1990

Scandal and Aftereffect Steven Ungar, 1995 Scandal and Aftereffect will make a crucial contribution to discussions about the function of memory in the relationship of history to cultural production and about the history of history itself.

Reena Virk Mythili Rajiva, Sheila Batacharya, 2010 The murder of British Columbia teen Reena Virk shocked Canadians and provoked an outpouring of media commentary, academic explanation, plays, and novels. But while much attention was paid to the problem of violence and girl bullying, race and related issues hardly figured in mainstream conversation. This collection aims to refocus the conversation about Reena Virk by considering how racism, colonialism, and hierarchies of gender, class, age, and sexuality figure in this crime and our understanding of it. The ten thoughtful chapters by both prominent and emerging scholars force us to grapple with the difficult and at times ugly implications of Reena Virk's murder for Canadian national identity. Filthy English Peter Silverton, 2011-11-03 When the Sex Pistols swore live on tea time telly in 1976, there was outrage across Britain. Headlines screamed, Christians marched, TVs were kicked. In thirty years, on all those words, are media mainstream bandied about with impunity on TV and in the papers. This is the story of our bad language and its three decade journey from the fringes of decency to the working centre of a more linguistically liberal nation. Silverton takes a clear, comprehensive, and witty look at
