The Nation Responds Recent Efforts To Improve Education:

The Nation Responds United States. Department of Education, 1984 Chronicles recent efforts to reform education throughout America in response to publication titled A nation at risk Informational Bulletin Wisconsin. Legislature. Legislative Reference Bureau, 1984 Resources in Education, 2000-10 Children in Poverty Aletha C. Huston, 1991 The number of children living in poverty in the United States increased dramatically during the 1980s and remains high Why are so many children growing up in poor families What are the effects of poverty on children's physical cognitive social and emotional development What role can public policy and policy research play in preventing or alleviating the damaging effects of poverty on children Children in Poverty examines these questions focusing on the child rather than on parents' income or self sufficiency The Social Organization of Schooling Larry V. Hedges, Barbara Schneider, 2005-05-26 Schools are complex social settings where students teachers administrators and parents interact to shape a child's educational experience Any effort to improve educational outcomes for America's children requires a dynamic understanding of the environments in which children learn In The Social Organization of Schooling editors Larry Hedges and Barbara Schneider assemble researchers from the fields of education organizational theory and sociology to provide a new framework for understanding and analyzing America's schools and the many challenges they face The Social Organization of Schooling closely examines the varied components that make up a school's social environment Contributors Adam Gamoran Ramona Gunter and Tona Williams focus on the social organization of teaching Using intensive case studies they show how positive professional relations among teachers contribute to greater collaboration the dissemination of effective teaching practices and ultimately a better learning environment for children Children learn more from better teachers but those best equipped to teach often opt for professions with higher social stature such as law or medicine In his chapter Robert Dreeben calls for the establishment of universal principles and practices to define good teaching arguing that such standards are necessary to legitimize teaching as a high status profession The Social Organization of Schooling also looks at how social norms in schools are shaped and reinforced by interactions among teachers and students Sociologist Maureen Hallinan shows that students who are challenged intellectually and accepted socially are more likely to embrace school norms and accept responsibility for their own actions Using classroom observations surveys and school records Daniel McFarland finds that group based classroom activities are effective tools in promoting both social and scholastic development in adolescents The Social Organization of Schooling also addresses educational reforms and the way they affect a school's social structures Examining how testing policies affect children's opportunities to learn Chandra Muller and Kathryn Schiller find that policies which increased school accountability boosted student enrollment in math courses reflecting a shift in the school culture towards higher standards Employing a variety of analytical methods The Social Organization of Schooling provides a sound understanding of the social mechanisms at work in our educational system This important volume brings a fresh perspective to the many ongoing debates in education policy and is essential reading for anyone concerned with the future of America's children U.S. Government Books, 1987 innovations in Learning Leona Schauble, Robert Glaser, 2013-04-03 This volume documents the growth of a new kind of interdisciplinary teamwork that is evolving among practitioners researchers teacher educators and community partners Its premise the design of learning environments and the development of theory must proceed in a mutually supportive fashion Scientific researchers have learned that a prerequisite to studying the kinds of learning that matter is helping to shoulder the responsibility for ensuring that these forms of learning occur To support and study learning researchers are increasingly making major and long term investments in the design and maintenance of contexts for learning Practitioners are assuming new roles as well reflecting an increasing awareness of the need to move beyond skillful doing If developing learning contexts are to be protected within and expanded beyond the systems that surround them it is necessary to foster professional communities that will support reflection about practice including the generation and evaluation of rich and flexible environments for student thinking One consequence of recent reforms is that teachers are increasingly regarding such tasks as central to their professional development Innovations in Learning New Environments for Education describes coordinated interaction between educational design on the one hand and the development of learning theory on the other through a series of examples These examples have been chosen because they are continuing proven programs with evidence of success Contributors to the volume are researchers and practitioners who have played a role in inventing these programs and have guided their development over a period of years Rather than choosing illustrations of a pipeline or application model of research from research and then to practice the editors of this volume have selected interventions in which researchers and practitioners work together persistently to forge common understanding Such activity is necessarily interdisciplinary often encompassing long spans of time and is more akin to engineering in the field than to laboratory science The common themes that emerge from this activity for example the role of tools talk and community belong exclusively neither to theory nor to practice but to their intersection in commitment to specific contexts of learning and continuing contributions to practice and underlying theory This volume is organized into three sections that reflect different levels and kinds of learning contexts Each of these levels has been the focus of recent cognitive and reform applications to learning and schooling The first offers examples of effective learning in informal settings the second discusses innovative approaches to schooling at the classroom level and the third reviews reforms that regard the entire school as the appropriate unit of change Assessment for Equity and Inclusion A. Lin Goodwin, 2012-12-06 How students are assessed can determine not only the quality type and degree of education they receive but has long term consequences for their future Assessment by standardized testing often labels poor and minority children in ways that exclude them from opportunities while failing to measure their true potential Assessment for Equity and Inclusion confronts the debate between standardized testing and alternative assessment methods locating strategies of assessment by which students are included rather than excluded Paying the Piper Michael S. McPherson, Morton Owen Schapiro, Gordon C. Winston, 1993 Examines the successes and problems of U S higher education Global Perspectives on Human Capital in Early Childhood Education Theodora Lightfoot-Rueda, Ruth Lynn Peach, 2016-04-29 Human capital theory developing children as future workers shapes thinking about early childhood education policy around the globe International contributors problematize this thinking and offer alternatives
