The Nature Of Belief The Internal Realization Of External Reality

Robert Withers

The Nature Of Belief The Internal Realization Of External Reality:

The Nature of Belief Robert Spann, 2006 Our conception of reality is an internal model in our minds This model is a mental conception that only approximates true actuality growing further in all probability from what reality actually is as we proceed up a hierarchy of levels from that of our daily lives through levels of greater abstraction such as legal and ethical reality At the peak of this model lies the greatest uncertainty in which reality is completely unknown and can only be surmised by philosophical and theological understanding The fundamental beliefs of our ultimate existence at the peak of this model of reality are examined using contrasting philosophic beliefs as expressed in Western and Eastern thought through Christian and Buddhist philosophies Conceptions of the Western idea of a Supreme Guiding Force are summarized In true reality God may be ineffable Yet we as individuals need to interact with a personal conception of this deity This meaningful personal belief is explored Religious concepts that cannot be proven are examined from a scientific point of view For instance Quantum Mechanics is used to suggest the continuation of our personal identities beyond death and Evolution is used to indicate God's possible approach to achieving His final objective in the creation of the universe On Realizing There is Only the Virtual Nature of Consciousness Peter Lunde Johnson, 2019-06-18 A translation of the definitive discourse on the nature of the mind and its spiritual restoration by Xuanzang in accordance with the teachings of the Buddhist School on Engaged Meditation Yogacara Translated into clear English and organized in an outline form to make it approachable by anyone this unique work also provides key terms in Sanskrit and Chinese These terms have been translated into English in ways that offer a fresh and thought provoking perspective on their originally intended meaning rather than merely repeating past conventions The introduction footnoting and index provide a comprehensive background on Buddhist concepts Buddhist schools of thought and Buddhist history relevant to the translation This groundbreaking work provides a unique opportunity for those interested in Buddhism to cut through its seemingly complex array of terms and concepts and make sense of its profound explanation of the human condition Lectures on the Philosophy of Religion Georg Wilhelm Friedrich

Hegel, 1996-08-01 These lectures represent the final and in some ways the decisive element of Hegel's entire philosophical system This volume contains Hegel's philosophical interpretation of the history of religions specifically of primitive religion the religion of ancient China Buddhism Hinduism Persian and Egyptian religions and Jewish Greek and Roman religion The Gnostic Path to Spiritual Reality, Realizing the Ecological University Ronald Barnett, 2024-08-22 The ecological university takes its interconnectedness with the world seriously This is challenging for the world is in difficulty and is shot through with antagonism The university is partly culpable for those difficulties and so has responsibilities towards the world Realizing the Ecological University spells out this thesis by charting the university's entanglements with eight ecosystems knowledge learning persons social institutions culture the economy the polity and nature The book identifies ways in which each of the eight ecosystems is impaired and points to possibilities through which universities can help in repairing those ecosystems This book also sets out broad principles in helping to realize the ecological university in each of the eight ecosystems Wearing his scholarship lightly Ronald Barnett draws widely from philosophy social theory comparative higher education and ethics and advances a particular form of the philosophy of higher education at once realist societal critical worldly and Earthly Written with wit and lots of examples actual and fictional the text has a compelling vibrancy made manifest in its concluding Manifesto Theory of Right, Duties and Religion Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel, Benjamin Chapman Burt, 1892

The Nature of Suffering and the Goals of Medicine

Eric J. Cassell Clinical Professor of Public Health Cornell University Medical College,1991-10-03 The Nature of Suffering underscores the change that is taking place in medicine from a basic concern with disease to a greater focus on the sick person Cassell centers his discussion on the problem of suffering because he says its recognition and relief are a test of the adequacy of any system of medicine He describes what suffering is and its relationship to the sick person bodies do not suffer people do An exclusive concern with scientific knowledge of the body and disease therefore impedes an understanding of suffering and diminishes the care of the suffering patient The growing criticism that medicine is not sufficiently humanistic does not go deep enough to provide a basis for a new understanding of medicine New concepts in medicine must have their basis in its history and in the development of ideas about disease and treatment Cassell uses many stories about patients to demonstrate that despite the current dominance of science and technology there can be no diagnosis search for the cause of the patient s disease prognostication or treatment without consideration of the individual sick person Recent trends in medicine and society Cassell believes show that it is time for the sick person to be not merely an important concern for physicians but the central focus of medicine He addresses the exciting problems involved in such a shift In this new medicine doctors would have to know the person as well as they know the disease What are persons however and how are doctors to comprehend them The kinds of knowledge involved are varied including values and aesthetics as well as science In the process of knowing the experience of patient and doctor move to center stage He believes that the exploration of the person will engage medicine in the 21st century just as understanding the body has occupied the last hundred years
