

day Mr. Bell took us all out to the Bottomless Lakes, east of Roswell, to go swimming. On the way, as we came in sight of the one where we were going, Mr. Bell said, "Hill, I bet you can't swim across it." Not long after we started to swim, Mr. Bell spotted me about halfway across the lake. I heard him yelling and waving his hand for me to go to the nearest side and get out. I swam on to the other side and turned around and swam back. Just another foolhardy thing I have done.

The next evening we arrived back in Hereford, tired, happy and with tales to tell. — HILL GARRISON

Garrison Brothers

The Garrison Brothers Hardware was founded in Hereford in the later part of 1901. The founders were Christopher (Chris) Seavey Garrison and Willard Hill Garrison, coming to Hereford from Cleburne, Texas. In later years they were joined by James Eben and George Pratt Garrison who were the oldest and youngest brothers.

Garrison Brothers Hardware was located on the southeast corner of Main and 2nd Streets and a block north of the Santa Fe passenger station. The store was a two-story building and the Hereford Masonic Lodge Hall occupied the second floor.

Access to the lodge hall was by an outside stairway on the north side of the building which, incidentally, provided choice grandstand seats for the circus parades when they came to town. Across the street on the north was E.B. Black Furniture and Undertaking. Across Main Street on the west was the 1st State Bank.

In addition to the hardware store building there was a large warehouse and outside storage building east of the two-story building. The warehouse contained buggies, harness, binders and all the back-up stock of stoves, washing machines etc. for the store.

Even the warehouse wasn't big enough for everything, a photo taken in 1906 shows a crowded yard and warehouse. Stocks ranged from fine Haviland china to farm wagons, with silverware, cutlery, nails, stoves, plows and you-name-it in between.

The Garrison Brothers were children of Andrew J. Garrison and Eliza Anna Seavey who were married in Atlanta, Ga. Willard Hill Garrison died in Hereford in 1906 soon after James Eben had come to Hereford.

About 1908 James went to Panhandle, Texas and started a store there. He died there March 4, 1916. Chris Garrison married Isabel Martin, daughter of N.F. Martin of Amarillo, in the summer of 1904. Isabel Martin had been a student at Hereford College two summers before. She was a sister of Mrs. C.E. Wheeler of Hereford. The Chris Garrison home faced directly up 3rd Street from 25 Mile Ave.

The Willard Hill Garrisons lived next door north until his widow moved to California in 1916. 25 Mile Avenue was a thoroughfare for large herds of cattle often moved from grazing lands south of Hereford to land north of town.

In the winter of 1919 Chris Garrison became an invalid and Mrs. Garrison resumed her pre-marriage occupation of school teaching. Mr. Garrison died in 1921 and in 1924 Mrs. Garrison became principal of Central School until she moved with their two sons, Christopher Hill and Ward Seavey, to Lubbock. George Pratt Garrison continued in the hardware business until his death in 1932. The Garrison brothers are buried in Hereford.

Mrs. Isabel Garrison continued teaching in the Lubbock schools until she retired in 1946 and lived in Lubbock until three years before her death on November 14, 1948. Her sons are still living at this writing. Hill in Lees Summit, Mo. and Ward in Sedona, Ar. — WARD S. GARRISON

D.R. Gass

To early day cowboys, the D.R. Gass and Son store was more than a place where they could buy boots and pants; it was a hotel. They would put their bedrolls on a counter or the floor and make themselves comfortable, with the owners' blessing.

One Sunday young Nester Gass was startled to see the sheriff and another man going through the back window of the store. Keeping in mind the possibility of trouble, he went to see what was going on. Inside, he found the two men building a fire in the bachelor stove to heat water for a bath.

From those days until the store was closed out in 1938, the D.R. Gass and Son Dry Goods Store was very much a part of the picture on Hereford's growing Main Street. Both Nester Gass and his father were vitally interested in farming and ranching, and the son devoted himself to his farming from the time he closed the store until his death.

The Gass family was living at Tulia when Hereford was born in 1898. D.R. Gass immediately made arrangements to open a general merchandise store here. Because there were no living accommodations available here for the family, he sent his son, Nester, to open the store in 1898. It was the first such store in Hereford. The family moved here in 1899 when they were able to get a house.

Nester Gass died here on Sept. 20, 1957, and his widow maintains farming interests and lives in their home on Jackson Street in Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. D.R. Gass were parents also of Mrs. N.E. McIntire, Canyon; Mrs. U.N. Over, Amarillo; and Mrs. George V. Stambaugh, Hereford. — PATTERSON HISTORY

Jeff T. Gilbreath

Jeff T. Gilbreath first came to Deaf Smith County in 1899 because his father, J.A. Gilbreath, thought the high plains a land of opportunity. He had been born July 3, 1879, at Columbia, Tenn., and came to Texas from Murray Co., Tenn.

Gilbreath brought his bride, Sally Murphy Gilbreath, to Texas in July, 1901, from Tenn. She had been born near Columbia on Nov. 11, 1880. Their first daughter, Jewell, was born nine miles south-west of Hereford on May 1, 1902.

Gilbreath often told of his first Deaf Smith County home — a one-room house on a section of land 9 miles south-west of Hereford. With his hat on, his head would touch the ceiling. He said that there was a bad drought in 1904, and land was selling for $4 per acre. He planted wheat in the fall of that year then moved back to Tennessee. The following summer he read in The Hereford Brand that the wheat had made 39 bushels per acre. He again saw this as a land of opportunity and came back in 1905, buying a location south of Dimmitt. Land was selling then for $10 per acre.
