

Introductory reading. For practice in this type of reading, relatively long texts are used, linguistically easy, containing at least 20-30% of redundant, secondary information. At the first stage of training, it is advisable to choose texts for this purpose that do not contain any new linguistic material, at the second stage, gradually increase its amount, but not exceed the specified limit, at the third stage, use any original text, the genre of which allows it.

Study reading. The most difficult texts for this stage of learning are selected, difficult both in content and in linguistic terms, since, in addition to teaching the student to read, working with the text has an accompanying educational task - to teach how to independently overcome possible difficulties using the supports available in the text.

Search reading. It is practiced in combination with other types. At the first stage, it is proposed to find information on a particular feature in the text that the students have already read. It is proposed to perform the same task on texts before reading them, at first - built mainly on sign language material, and then containing a better known one.

Text and Quality Peder Skyum-Nielsen, 1995 UNESCO Guidebook on Textbook Research and Textbook Revision Falk Pingel, 2010-01-01 Transdisciplinary Research on Learning and Teaching: Chances and Challenges Matthias Stadler, Frank Fischer, Arthur C. Graesser, 2021-09-09 Assessing Quality in European Educational Research Ingrid Gogolin, Fredrik Åström, Antje Hansen, 2014-05-06

Competition based models for research policy and management have an increasing influence throughout the research process from attracting funding to publishing results. The introduction of quality control methods utilizing various forms of performance indicators is part of this development. The authors presented in this volume deal with the following questions: What counts as quality and how can this be assessed? What are the possible side effects of current quality control systems on research conducted in the European Research Area especially in the social sciences and the humanities? Studies on the educational quality of schools Manfred Prenzel, The priority program. The educational quality of schools has been established seven years ago by the German Research Foundation DFG. The projects in this program investigated conditions inside and outside of school and their impact on the development of mathematical scientific and cross curricular competencies. In this book major findings of the program are presented. The projects not only give an overview of their research questioning methods and findings but also of approaches and materials that have been developed to support learning and teaching in mathematics and science class rooms. The studies reported here identify factors for weaknesses in the educational outcomes that became apparent in the international comparisons like TIMSS and PISA. The projects however provide empirically substantiated units on approaches that can help to improve the educational quality of schools. Publisher ed Textbooks and Quality Learning for All Unesco, 2006. Focused on the dual aspects of access and quality this publication discusses the role of textbooks in facilitating quality education for all. The book consists of reviews of the international perspectives as well as case studies on Brazil, Russian Federation and Rwanda. It also documents strategies that could help to optimise procedures of textbook development, production and evaluation, enhance textbooks' pedagogical impact, improve teachers' selection of textbooks and raise textbook supply efficiently. Critical Analysis of Science Textbooks Myint Swe Khine, 2013-06-26. The critical analysis of science textbooks is vital in improving teaching and learning at all levels in the subject and this volume sets out a range of academic perspectives on how that analysis should be done. Each chapter focuses on an aspect of science textbook appraisal with coverage of everything from theoretical and philosophical underpinnings, methodological issues and conceptual frameworks for critical analysis to practical techniques for evaluation. Contributions from many of the most distinguished scholars in the field give this collection its sure footed contemporary relevance reflecting the international standards of UNESCO as well as leading research organizations such as the American Association for the Advancement of Science whose Project 2061 is an influential waypoint in developing protocols for textbook analysis. Thus the book shows how to gauge aspects of textbooks such as their treatment of controversial issues graphical depictions scientific historiography vocabulary usage accuracy and readability The content also covers broader social themes such as the portrayal of women and minorities Despite newer more active pedagogies textbooks continue to have a strong presence in classrooms and to embody students socio historical inheritance in science Despite their ubiquitous presence they have received relatively little on going empirical study It is imperative that we understand how textbooks influence science learning This book presents a welcome and much needed analysis Tina A Grotzer Harvard University Cambridge Massachusetts USA The present book provides a much needed survey of the current state of research into science textbooks and offers a widerange of perspectives to inform the science of writing better science textbooks Keith S Taber University of Cambridge Cambridge United Kingdom Supervision for Quality Education in Science United States.
