America John Opie, 2008-01-01 Virtual America traces the complex relationship between Americans technology and their environment as it has unfolded over the past several centuries Throughout history Americans have constructed mental pictures of unique places such as the American West that have taken on more authority than the actual gritty landscapes This disconnect from reality is magnified by the new world of virtual realities on the computer screen where personal immersion in interactive simulations becomes the default environment Virtual America identifies the connections or lack thereof between our individual selves an American identity and the geography out there John Opie examines what he calls First Nature the natural world Second Nature metropolitan infrastructure built environment and Third Nature virtual reality in cyberspace He also explores how Americans have historically dreamed about a better life in daily ordinary existence and then fulfilled it through the Engineered America of our built environment the Consumer America of material well being and the Triumphal America of our conviction that we are the world s exceptional model But these dream worlds have also encouraged placelessness and thus indifference to our dwelling in home ground Finally Opie explores Last Nature a sense of place and argues that when we identify an authentic place we can locate authenticity of self a reification of place and self by their connectedness

Little Novels Wilkie Collins, 2015-11-06 THE events happened soon after the first thirty years of the present century had come to an end On a fine morning early in the month of April a gentleman of middle age named Rayburn took his little daughter Lucy out for a walk in the woodland pleasure ground of Western London called Kensington Gardens The few friends whom he possessed reported of Mr Rayburn not unkindly that he was a reserved and solitary man He might have been more accurately described as a widower devoted to his only surviving child Although he was not more than forty years of age the one pleasure which made life enjoyable to Lucy s father was offered by Lucy herself Playing with her ball the child ran on to the southern limit of the Gardens at that part of it which still remains nearest to the old Palace of Kensington

Observing close at hand one of those spacious covered seats called in England alcoves Mr Rayburn was reminded that he had the morning s newspaper in his pocket and that he might do well to rest and read At that early hour the place was a solitude Go on playing my dear he said but take care to keep where I can see you Lucy tossed up her ball and Lucy s father opened his newspaper He had not been reading for more than ten minutes when he felt a familiar little hand laid on his knee Tired of playing he inquired with his eyes still on the newspaper I m frightened papa
