

The background of the image is a dramatic landscape. The sky is filled with heavy, textured clouds, illuminated from below by a low sun, creating a warm, orange and yellow glow. Below the sky, there are several layers of dark, silhouetted mountains or hills, creating a sense of depth. The overall mood is contemplative and powerful.

Some humans may be smarter than others, but together we are a mighty moron.

Common Sense vs. the World Ronald J. Plachno, 2022-02-06 In this 21st century we are engulfed by tidal waves and tsunamis of information Television Internet Public Speakers and other media can either bring us great knowledge that the world has never seen before this time in history or just give us instead false messages Business commercials want us to buy their products and political commercials want our votes Added to this some of the media may disagree so much as to say opposite seeming things Clearly when some news sources say opposite things logically they all cannot be right In fact it is slightly possible that perhaps none of them are simply correct How to survive in this confusion and still seek wisdom While some people will simply believe what they hear from one source or multiple sources others of us want more And we have something more powerful than the media tidal waves We can choose to be open minded and to think for ourselves Many people seem to doubt the power of the human mind and even their own thinking abilities However I find human thinking power often much greater than many people might imagine There is perhaps more truth more logic power more ethics and morality in our own thinking than is easily available in the media Trust in yourself While there are some logic examples in this book they are not the point You may begin your own thinking or have better inside information and reach a different conclusion and that is more than okay That gives us thinking people something to discuss respectfully The important thing is how we each can Learn how to learn and then perhaps become continuous students for our entire lives and seek wisdom I find that people who achieve being open minded and think are often the brightest the most fun to talk to and also seldom are given to the disrespect and hate so prevalent in today's society And best wishes Ron Plachno

Most by Nature E. Asamoah-Yaw, 2016-09-15 The book is about the authenticity of the conventional wisdom of nature and nurture It engages the readers attention on moments of drawing a line between nature and the environment

when establishing which of the two practically manages human beings The popular belief that environmental forces count most in determining who why and what we are is challenged vigorously by this unique book The author has demonstrated clearly with modern scientific revelations that it is firstly the content of all organic matters that controls directs and supervises our actions nurture is the second added force The book emphasizes that human similarities equalities and differences do exist because it is the unique biological constitution that gives energy to act The similarity equality and differences among black people and nonblack people exist firstly because of the natural contents of body chemistry The environment plays an insignificant part The book traces human history from prehistoric times to the present to show the purpose of life the maintenance of life and the progress through adaptation and control of our environment The book concludes that there exists excessive melanin segments in most Negroes blood chemistry neurons and brain organ compared to those in most nonblacks This excessive difference in the natural black pigment is responsible for most of the black peoples insensitivities in life management and progress based on evolutionary human history of life and progress

Homo Religiosus? Timothy Samuel Shah, Jack Friedman, 2018-01-11 Are humans naturally predisposed to religion and supernatural beliefs If so does this naturalness provide a moral foundation for religious freedom This volume offers a cross disciplinary approach to these questions engaging in a range of contemporary debates at the intersection of religion cognitive science sociology anthropology political science epistemology and moral philosophy The contributors to this original and important volume present individual sometimes opposing points of view on the naturalness of religion thesis and its implications for religious freedom Topics include the epistemological foundations of religion the relationship between religion and health and a discussion of the philosophical foundations of religious freedom as a natural universal right drawing implications for the normative role of religion in public life By challenging dominant intellectual paradigms such as the secularization thesis and the Enlightenment view of religion the volume opens the door to a powerful and provocative reconceptualization of religious freedom
