Some Choice Law Medicine And The Market:

Some Choice George J. Annas, 1998 This book is a passionate critique of the shallowness of choice rhetoric used to camouflage critical personal and public policy issues in contemporary debates in American medicine Our public discourse on life and death from health care to medical research and from risky behavior to assisted suicide is dominated by the market model of consumerism augmented by appeals to individual freedom In fact however in most cases there is no real choice left for individuals to make the important choices have been made by others and the illusion of choice fosters complacency Knee jerk libertarianism leads to a superficial consumer culture and life choices valued only by their monetary value Some Choice uses the cases of cloning drive through deliveries emergency medicine genetic privacy human experimentation tobacco control and physician assisted suicide among others to suggest ways in which we can break through our vapid and superficial public discourse on life and death issues and begin to engage in a public dialogue that enriches our lives and society rather than cheapens them George Annas is one of the most widely recognized names in current bioethics debates His goal in this new book is to help open a national and international dialogue that sees the search for universal human rights as valuable and international cooperation to define protect and promote them as central to life

Self-determination in Health Care Leroy C. Edozien, 2016-03-03 It is generally accepted in legal and bioethical discourse that the patient has a right to self determination In practice though this is often not the case Paternalism is waning and it is increasingly recognised that there are values other than medical factors which determine the choices that patients make Unfortunately these developments have not resulted in huge advances for patient self determination which is largely because the consent model has fundamental flaws that constrain its effectiveness This book sets out to offer an alternative model to consent In the property model proposed here the patient s bodily integrity is protected from unauthorised invasion and their legitimate expectation to be provided with the relevant information to make an informed decision is taken to be a proprietary right It is argued that the property model potentially overcomes the limitations of the consent model including the obstacle caused by the requirement to prove causation in consent cases The author proposes that this model could in the future provide an alternative or complementary approach for the courts to consider when dealing with cases relating to self determination in health care

Competence and Vulnerability in Biomedical Research

Philip Bielby, 2008-09-16 Enhanced knowledge of the nature and causes of mental disorder have led increasingly to a need for the recruitment of cognitively vulnerable participants in biomedical research These individuals often fall into the grey area between obvious decisional competence and obvious decisional incompetence and as a result may not be recognised as having the legal capacity to make such decisions themselves At the core of the ethical debate surrounding the participation of cognitively vulnerable individuals in research is when if at all we should judge them decisionally and legally competent to consent to or refuse research participation on their own behalf and when they should be judged incompetent in this respect In this book the author develops a novel justificatory framework for making judgments of decisional competence to consent to biomedical research with reference to five groups of cognitively vulnerable individuals older children and adolescents adults with intellectual disabilities adults with depression adults with schizophrenia and adults with dementia including Alzheimer's disease Using this framework the author argues that we can make morally defensible judgments about the competence or incompetence of a potential participant to give contemporaneous consent to research by having regard to whether a judgment of competence would be more harmful to the generic rights of the potential participant than a judgment of incompetence The argument is also used to justify an account of supported decision making in research and applied to evaluate the extent to which this approach is evident in existing ethical guidelines and legal provisions The book will be of interest to bioethicists as well as psychiatrists and academic medical lawyers interested in normative questions raised by the concepts of competence and capacity

Mahowald, 1999-10-14 Genetics is not gender neutral in its impact Mahowald cites a wide range of biological and psychosocial examples that reveal its different impact on men and women especially with regard to reproduction and caregiving She examines the extent to which these differences are associated with gender injustice arguing for positions that reduce inequality between the sexes The critical perspective Mahowald brings to this analysis is an egalitarian interpretation of feminism that demands attention to inequalities arising from racism ethnocentrism ableism and classism as well as sexism Eschewing a notion of equality as sameness Mahowald defines equality as attribution of the same value to different objects Gender justice she claims imputes the same value to men and women despite their differences It can only be maximized by practical efforts to equalize the burdens and benefits associated with genetics The topics considered include participation in research allocation of genetic services cultural difference sex selection misattributed paternity prenatal and preimplantation diagnosis carrier testing genetic interventions genetic disabilities preferences for genetic ties to offspring genetic susceptibility to late onset disorders behavioral genetics genetic discrimination in employment and insurance and human cloning Cases both real and concocted are used to illustrate the questions addressed Pharmacracry Thomas Szasz,2003-09-01 The modern penchant for transforming human problems into diseases and judicial sanctions into treatments replacing the rule of law with the rule of medical discretion leads to a type of government social critic Thomas Bioethics George J. Annas,2009 Bioethics was born in the USA and the values American bioethics embrace are based on American law including liberty and justice This book crosses the borders between bioethics and law but moves beyond the domestic law bioethics struggles for dominance by exploring attempts to articulate universal principles based on international human rights The isolationism of bioethics in the US is not tenable in the wake of scientific triumphs like decoding the human genome and civilizational tragedies like international terrorism Annas argues that by crossing boundaries which have artificially separated bioethics and health law from the international human rights movement American bioethics can be reborn as a global force for good instead of serving mainly the purposes of U S academics This thesis is explored in a variety of international contexts such as terrorism and genetic engineering and in U S domestic disputes such as patient rights and market medicine The citizens of the world have created two universal codes science has sequenced the human genome and the United Nations has produced the Universal Declaration of Human Rights The challenge for American bioethics is to combine these two great codes in imaginative and constructive ways to make the world a better and healthier place to live A Merciful End Ian Robert Dowbiggin,2003 This is the first full history of the euthanasia movement in the U S It tells for the first time the dramatic story of those reformers who struggled throughout the twentieth century to change the nation s attitudes towards mercy killing and assisted suicide Original wide ranging in scope but sensitive to the personal dimensions of euthanasia A Merciful End is an illuminating and cautionary account of tension between motives and methods within twenty century social reform providing a refreshingly new perspective on an old debate Monitoring Stem Cell Research President's Council on Bioethics (U.S.),2004 Worst Case Bioethics George J.

 Annas,2010 In Worst Case Bioethics George Annas employs contemporary disputes involving death and disaster to explore the radical changes underway in public health practice the application of constitutional law to medicine and human rights discourse to promote human health and wellbeing
