The Poetics of National and Racial Identity in Nineteenth-Century American Literature John D. Kerker, 2003-12-11 John D Kerker's study examines the literary history of racial and national identity in nineteenth century America Kerker argues that writers such as DuBois Lanier Simms and Scott used poetic effects to assert the distinctiveness of certain groups in a diffuse social landscape Kerker explores poetry's formal properties its sound effects as they intersect with the issues of race and nation He shows how formal effects ranging from meter and rhythm to alliteration and melody provide these writers with evidence of a collective identity whether national or racial Through this shared reliance on formal literary effects national and racial identities Kerker shows are related elements of a single literary history This is the story of how poetic effects helped to define national identities in Anglo America as a step toward helping to define racial identities within the United States This highly original study will command a wide audience of Americanists

The Third Mumbai Philipose Thomas, 2018-04-02 The earth looks calm from space Its majestic rotation continues on its eternal journey a serene sight From the high sky all looks well over the Indian subcontinent with its unmistakable jutting coastline The ethereal vision is suddenly muddled by a mushroom shaped cloud arising from the west coast of the Mumbai peninsula Shortly thereafter similar clouds arise This time they're over Islamabad and Karachi What would a post apocalyptic India look like Philipose Thomas The Third Mumbai is the first book to explore this question With geo political relations between India and Pakistan deteriorating rapidly nuclear attacks become inevitable Set in the aftermath of such a devastating war the author portrays a stark picture of a barely recovering India Filled with pirates gangsters whales and guerrilla attacks The Third Mumbai is a story of loss hope and justice that is sure to keep readers enthralled
