Bain, 2012-08-27 This collection provides a comprehensive reading of Machaut's literary and musical corpus that privileges his engagement with contemporary political ethical and aesthetic concerns of late medieval culture as well as his reception by artists and thinkers medieval and modern Images, Texts, and Marginalia in a "Vows of the Peacock" Manuscript (New York, Pierpont Morgan Library MS G24) Domenic Leo, 2013-08-16 The Vows of the Peacock written in 1312 and dedicated to Thibaut de Bar bishop of Liège recounts how Alexander the Great comes to the aid of a family of aristocrats threatened by Indians The poem remained popular throughout the fourteenth century and was soon followed by two sequels Twenty six illuminated manuscripts constitute part of a catalogue and concordance of all Peacock manuscripts One of the most provocative PML MS G24 has twenty two miniatures which illustrate chivalry and courtly love as epitomized in the text An unusually high number of scurrilous marginalia however surround them An interdisciplinary exploration of iconography reception image text marginalia dynamics and context reveals their ultimate polysemy as scatological comedians and serious harbingers of sin Allegorical Play in the Old French Motet Sylvia Huot, 1997 This book focuses on the literary artistry of the texts of Old French and bilingual motets notably the special feature of motets that distinguished them from other medieval lyric forms the phenomenon of polytextuality Eight Centuries of Troubadours and Trouvères John

Haines, 2004-07-08 This 2004 book traces the changing interpretation of troubadour and trouvère music a repertoire of songs which have successfully maintained public interest for eight centuries from the medieval chansonniers to contemporary rap renditions A study of their reception therefore serves to illustrate the development of the modern concept of medieval music Important stages include sixteenth century antiquarianism the Enlightenment synthesis of scholarly and popular traditions and the infusion of archaeology and philology in the nineteenth century leading to more recent theories on medieval rhythm More often than now writers and performers have negotiated a compromise between historical research and a more imaginative approach to envisioning the music of troubadours and trouveres This book points not so much to a resurrection of medieval music in modern times as to a continuous tradition of interpreting these songs over eight centuries

Experimental Histories Hannah Weaver, 2024-08-15 In Experimental Histories Hannah Weaver examines the medieval practice of interpolation inserting material from one text into another which is often categorized as being a problematic inauthentic phenomenon akin to forgery and pseudepigraphy Instead Weaver promotes interpolation as the signature form of medieval British historiography and a vehicle of historical theory arguing that some of the most novel concepts of time in medieval historiography can be found in these altered narratives of the past For Weaver historiographical interpolation constitutes the traces of active experimentation with how best to write history particularly the history of Britain Historians in twelfth and thirteenth century Britain recognized the difficulty of enfolding complex events into a linear chronology and embraced innovative textual methods of creating history Focusing on the Brut tradition but also analyzing the long history of interpolated historiography including the Bayeux Embroidery Experimental Histories offers a new interpretation of generic remixing in medieval writing about the past Drawing on both manuscript studies and the new formalism it shows that the practice of inserting materials from romance and hagiography allowed creative revisers to explore how lived events relate to passing time By embracing interpolation Weaver provides lively insights into the ways that time becomes history and human actors experience time

Medieval Woman's Song Anne L. Klinck, Ann Marie Rasmussen, 2002 The number of surviving medieval secular poems attributed to named female authors is small some of the best known being those of the trobairitz the female troubadours of southern France However there is a large body of poetry that constructs a particular textual femininity through the use of the female voice Some of these poems are by men and a few by women including the trobairitz many are anonymous and often the gender of the poet is unresolvable A woman's song in this sense can be defined as a female voice poem on the subject of love typically characterized by simple language sexual candor and apparent artlessness The chapters in Medieval Woman's Song bring together scholars in a range of disciplines to examine how both men and women contributed to this art form Without eschewing consideration of authorship the collection deliberately overturns the long standing scholarly practice of treating as separate and distinct entities female voice lyrics composed by men and those composed by women What is at stake here is less the voice of women themselves than its cultural and generic construction genres which cross between different musical and literary categories Emphasising the cosmopolitan artistic milieu of Arras Butterfield describes the wide range of contexts in which secular songs were quoted and copied including narrative romances satires and love poems She uses manuscript evidence to shed light on medieval perceptions of how music and poetry were composed and interpreted The volume is well illustrated to demonstrate the rich visual culture of medieval French writing and music This interdisciplinary study will be of interest to both literary and musical scholars of late medieval culture

Courtly Love Undressed E. Jane Burns, 2014-07-09 Clothing was used in the Middle Ages to mark religious military and chivalric orders lepers and prostitutes The ostentatious display of luxury dress more specifically served as a means of self definition for members of the ruling elite and the courtly lovers among them In Courtly Love Undressed E Jane Burns unfolds the rich display of costly garments worn by amorous partners in literary texts and other cultural documents in the French High Middle Ages Burns reads through clothes in lyric romance and didactic literary works vernacular sermons and sumptuary laws to show how courtly attire is used to negotiate desire sexuality and symbolic space as well as social class Reading through clothes reveals that the expression of female desire so often effaced in courtly lyric and romance can be registered in the poetic deployment of fabric and adornment and that gender is often configured along a sartorial continuum rather than in terms of naturally derived categories of woman and man The symbolic identification of the court itself as a hybrid crossing place between Europe and the East also emerges through Burns's reading of literary allusions to the trade travel and pilgrimage that brought luxury cloth to France

Medieval Music-Making and the Roman de Fauvel Emma Dillon, 2002-10-07 Publisher Description The Refrain and the Rise of the Vernacular in Medieval French Music and Poetry Jennifer Saltzstein, 2013 A survey of the use of the refrain in thirteenth and fourteenth century French music and poetry showing how it was skilfully deployed to assert the validity of the vernacular The relationship between song quotation and the elevation of French as a literary language that could challenge the cultural authority of Latin is the focus of this book It approaches this phenomenon through a close examination of the refrain a short phrase of music and text quoted intertextually across thirteenth and early fourteenth century musical and poetic genres The author draws on a wide range of case studies from motets trouv re song plays romance vernacular translations and proverb collections to show that medieval composers quoted refrains as vernacular auctoritates she argues that their appropriation of scholastic Latinate writing techniques worked to authorize Old French music and poetry as media suitable for the transmission of knowledge Beginning with an exploration of the quasi scholastic usage of refrains in anonymous and less familiar clerical contexts the book goes on to articulate a new framework for understanding the emergence of the first two named authors of vernacular polyphonic music the cleric trouv res Adam de la Halle and Guillaume de Machaut It shows how by blending their craft with the writing practices of the universities composers could use refrain quotation to assert their status as authors with a new self consciousness and to position works in the vernacular as worthy of study and interpretation Jennifer Saltzstein is Assistant
