Each Rabbinic document from the Mishnah through the Bavli defines itself by a unique combination of indicative traits of rhetoric topic and particular logic that governs its coherent discourse But narratives in the same canonical compilations do not conform to the documentary indicators that govern in these compilations respectively They form an anomaly for the documentary reading of the Rabbinic canon of the formative age To remove that anomaly this project classifies the types and forms of narratives and shows that particular documents exhibit distinctive preferences among those types This detailed systematic classification of Rabbinic narrative supplies these facts concerning the classification of narratives and their regularities 1 what are the types and forms of narrative in a given document 2 how are these distinctive types and forms of narrative distributed across the canonical documents of the formative age the first six centuries C E The answers for the documentary preferences are in Volumes One through Three for the Mishnah Tosefta the Tannaite Midrash compilations and Rabbah Midrash compilations respectively Volume Four then sets forth the documentary history of each of the types of Rabbinic narrative including the authentic narrative the ma'aseh and the mashal How the traits of the several types of narratives shift as the respective types move from document to document is spelled out in complete detail This project opens an entirely new road toward the documentary analysis of Rabbinic narrative It fills out an important chapter in the documentary hypothesis of the Rabbinic canon in the formative age The Documentary Form-history of Rabbinic Literature Jacob Neusner, 1998

The Documentary History of Judaism and Its Recent Interpreters Jacob Neusner, 2012-07-10 The result for the history of Judaism of a documentary reading of the Rabbinic canonical sources illustrates the working of that hypothesis It is the first major outcome of that hypothesis but there are other implications and a variety of new problems emerge from time to time as the work proceeds In the recent past Neusner has continued to explore special problems of the documentary hypothesis of the Rabbinic canon At the same time Neusner notes others join in the discussion that have produced important and ambitious analyses of the thesis and its implications Here Neuser has collected some of the more ambitious ventures into the hypothesis and its current recapitulations Neusner begins with the article written by Professor William Scott Green for the Encyclopaedia Judaica second edition as Green places the documentary hypothesis into the context of Neusner's entire oeuvre Neuser then reproduces what he regards as the single most successful venture of the documentary hypothesis contrasting between the Mishnah's and the Talmuds programs for the social order of Israel the doctrines of economics politics and philosophy set forth in those documents respectively Then come the two foci of discourse Halakhah or normative law and Aggadah or normative theology Professors Bernard Jackson of the University of Manchester England and Mayer Gruber of Ben Gurion University of the Negev treat the Halakhic program that Neusner has devised and Kevin Edgecomb of the University of California Berkeley has produced a remarkable summary of the theological system Neusner discerns in the Aggadic documents Neusner concludes with a review of a book by a critic of the documentary hypothesis
