The Agriculture Course, Koberwitz, Whitsun 1924 Peter Selg, 2010

I grew up entirely among peasant folk and in my spirit I have always remained there I indicated this in my autobiography Though it was not on a large farming estate as you have here in a smaller domain I myself planted potatoes and though I did not breed horses at any rate I helped to breed pigs And in the farmyard of our immediate neighborhood I lent a hand with the cattle These things were very close to me for a long time I took part in them actively Thus I do at any rate have a love of farming Rudolf Steiner Biodynamic agriculture which has increased consistently in popularity over the years was born in June 1924 from a single course of eight lectures by Rudolf Steiner in Koberwitz now in Poland In The Agriculture Course Peter Selg presents a remarkable study of the context of those lectures conveying a tangible sense of the celebratory mood and atmosphere of those events at Pentecost He highlights Steiner's intentions for the course and parallel lectures in Breslau by drawing widely on the available literature and numerous archival sources Recognizing that chemical manipulation of agriculture was neither desirable nor sustainable Steiner helped launch an agricultural movement whose outlook is truly pioneering in spirit As Selg describes Steiner saw that what was needed instead was new conscious insight into life forces and laws into the nature of organisms into the diverse realms of nature and the determining factors of both Earth and cosmos that influence them The vivid picture painted here reveals the importance that Steiner placed on launching this work as well as the extent to which his initiative offered an answer to the emerging forces of cultural and political destruction that would lead to World War II The Agriculture Course Koberwitz Whitsun 1924 is a translation from German of Koberwitz 1924 Rudolf Steiner und der Landwirtschaftliche Kurs Rudolf Steiner Verlag 2009
