encountered the Tawakalna Brigade of Iraq's elite Republican Guard. By any calculation the 12 American tanks didn't stand a chance. Yet within a mere 23 minutes the M1A1 tanks of Eagle Troop destroyed more than 50 enemy vehicles and plowed a hole through the Iraqi front. History would call it the Battle of 73 Easting. Based on hours of interviews and archival research by renowned author Mike Guardia, this minute-by-minute account of the US breakthrough reveals an intimate no-holds-barred account of modern warfare.

Military Experience in the Age of Reason Christopher Duffy, 2005-12-20. First published in 1987. Routledge is an imprint of Taylor & Francis, an information company.

Behavioural Investing James Montier, 2007-10-29. Behavioural investing seeks to bridge the gap between psychology and investing. All too many investors are unaware of the mental pitfalls that await them. Even once we are aware of our biases, we must recognise that knowledge does not equal behaviour. The solution lies in designing and adopting an investment process that is at least partially robust to behavioural decision-making errors. Behavioural Investing: A Practitioner's Guide to Applying Behavioural Finance explores the biases we face the way in which they show up in the investment process and urges readers to adopt an empirically based, sceptical approach to investing. This book is unique in combining insights from the field of applied psychology with a thorough understanding of the investment problem. The content is practitioner-focused throughout and will be essential reading for any investment professional looking to improve their investing behaviour to maximise returns. Key features include: The only book to cover the applications of behavioural finance; An executive summary for every chapter with key points highlighted at the chapter start; Information on the key behavioural biases of professional investors including The Seven Sins of Fund Management; Investment myth-busting; and The Tao of Investing. Practical examples showing how using a psychologically inspired model can improve on standard common practice valuation tools. Written by an internationally renowned expert in the field of behavioural finance.

The Oxford Handbook of Land Economics Junjie Wu, 2014-06-20. What do economists know about land and how they know it? The Oxford Handbook of Land Economics describes the latest developments in the fields of economics that examine land, including natural resource economics, environmental economics, regional science, and urban economics. The handbook argues first that land is a theme that integrates these fields and second that productive integration increasingly occurs not just within economics but also across disciplines. Greater recognition and integration stimulates cross-fertilization among the fields of land economics research. By providing a comprehensive survey of land-related work in several economics fields, this handbook provides the basic tools needed for economists to redefine the scope and focus of their work to better incorporate the contemporary thinking from other fields and to push out the frontiers of land economics. The first section presents recent advances in the analysis of major drivers of land use change, focusing on economic development and various land use markets. The second section presents economic research on the environmental and socio-economic impacts of land use and land use change. The third section addresses six cutting-edge approaches for land economics research, including spatial econometric simulation and experimental methods. The section also includes a synthetic chapter critically reviewing methodological advances The fourth section covers policy issues Four chapters disentangle the economics of land conservation and preservation while three chapters examine the economic analysis of the legal institutions of land use These chapters focus on law and economic problems of permissible government control of land in the U S context Investigation of Round Mountain Manganese Properties, Bland County, Va Mitchell H.
