

The STORY OF THE 50 STATE QUARTERS

Of United States quarter's history, designer and the United States Mint's chief designer, Stuart Rothenberg, said in the 1990s, the United States Mint's "50 State Quarters" was not a coin, it was a series of coins. It was a series of coins that would be minted in a dollar, but the coins "were not" for a quarter.

Later, the Mint, in April 1992, announced that the new Washington quarter dollar coins. These coins were first produced in 1992, and a few days of these quarter dollars will end.

Several different quarter dollars have been produced over the years, including the ones: "State Quarters", "Liberty Bells", and "Baker's 100th Anniversary". The Washington quarter was produced to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Washington. In 1975 and 1976, a new series was produced to commemorate the Bicentennial of the United States.

In late 1991, President Clinton signed legislation that authorized the United States Mint to begin each of the 50 states in the order in which they joined the Union. These coins are to be minted each year from 1992 through 1995, and the United States Mint's "50 State Quarters" program. The series of the Washington quarter is replaced with a design representative of each state. The program is the first major change to the quarter in over 100 years. The words "United States of America" and "Quarter Dollar" are removed from the reverse of the coin. The words "50 State Quarters" are placed on the reverse. Each coin is minted in the 10th and 11th years of the program, and the coins are minted in the Washington and Denver mints in the United States.
