glass of water A man sprang to his feet beckoning to an usher When he reached the seat the woman had recovered by a supreme effort of will and sat erect her face flushed with anger at her own weakness Thank you I am quite well now she said with dignity The man settled back and the usher returned to his place and stood watching her out of the corners of his eyes fascinated by her beauty The church was packed that night with more than two thousand people The air was hot and foul The old brick building jammed in the middle of a block faced the street with its big bare gable The ushers were so used to people fainting that they kept water and smelling salts handy in the anterooms The Reverend Frank Gordon no longer paused or noticed these interruptions He had accepted the truth that while God builds the churches the devil gets the job to heat light and ventilate them The preacher had not noticed this excitement under the gallery but had gone steadily on in an even monotone very unusual to his fiery temperament A half dozen reporters yawned and drummed on their fingers with their pencils The rumour of a brewing church trouble had been published but he had not referred to it in the morning and evidently was not going to do so to night The One Woman J.
