Ancient Historiography on War and Empire Timothy Howe, Sabine Müller, Richard Stoneman, 2016-11-30 In the ancient Greek speaking world writing about the past meant balancing the reporting of facts with shaping and guiding the political interests and behaviours of the present Ancient Historiography on War and Empire shows the ways in which the literary genre of writing history developed to guide empires through their wars Taking key events from the Achaemenid Persian Athenian Macedonian and Roman empires the 17 essays collected here analyse the way events and the accounts of those events interact Subjects include how Greek historians assign nearly divine honours to the Persian King the role of the tomb cult of Cyrus the Founder in historical narratives of conquest and empire from Herodotus to the Alexander historians warfare and financial innovation in the age of Philip II and his son Alexander the Great the murders of Philip II his last and seventh wife Kleopatra and her guardian Attalos Alexander the Great's combat use of eagle symbolism and divination Plutarch's juxtaposition of character in the Alexander Caesar pairing as a commentary on political legitimacy and military prowess and Roman Imperial historians using historical examples of good and bad rule to make meaningful challenges to current Roman authority In some cases the balance shifts more towards the literary and in others more towards the historical but what all of the essays have in common is both a critical attention to the genre and context of history writing in the ancient world and its focus on war and empire

The Story of Us Humans, from Atoms to Today's Civilization Robert Dalling, 2006-03 The Story of Us Humans explains human nature and human history including the origins of our species emotions behavior morals and society It explains what we are how we got here and where we are today by describing the origin history and current ways of our neighborhoods religion government science technology and business Written in plain language it explains what astronomy physics geology biology chemistry anthropology history religion social science and political science tell us about ourselves Most everyone feels that human success is measured in terms of healthy and happy children and communities Human thoughts and actions involve little besides love and children spouse and family community and justice because we are parenting mammals and social primates Each of us simply wants to laugh and joke with our family and friends pursue life raise children and strive to be a valued and contributing member of our community We have made incredible progress building civilization in just a few
