Sexuality and the Politics of Ethos in the Writing Classroom Zan Meyer Goncalves,2006-01-04 Applying the complexities of literacy development and personal ethos to the teaching of composition Zan Meyer Goncalves challenges writing teachers to consider ethos as a series of identity performances shaped by the often inequitable social contexts of their classrooms and communities Using the rhetorical experiences of students who identify as lesbian gay bisexual and or transgender she proposes a new way of thinking about ethos that addresses the challenges of social justice identity and transfer issues in the classroom Goncalves offers an innovative approach to teaching identity performance theory bound by social contexts She applies this new approach to theories of specificity and intersectionality illustrating how teachers can help students redefine the relationship between their social identities and their writing She also addresses bringing social activism and identity politics into the classroom helping writers make transfers across rhetorical contexts and linking students interests to public conversations Theoretical and practical Sexuality and the Politics of Ethos in the Writing Classroom provides teachers of first year and advanced composition studies with useful detailed assignments based in specific identity performance Goncalves offers techniques to subvert oppressive language practices while encouraging students to recognize themselves as writers citizens and active participants in their own educations and communities The Original Text-wrestling Book Marcia Smith Curtis,2001 Feminist Rhetorical Resilience Elizabeth A Flynn,Patricia Sotirin,Ann Brady,2012-06-16 Although it is well known in other fields the concept of resilience has not been addressed explicitly by feminist rhetoricians This collection develops it in readings of rhetorical situations across a range of social contexts and national cultures Contributors demonstrate that resilience offers an important new conceptual frame for feminist rhetoric with emphasis on agency change and hope in the daily lives of individuals or groups of individuals disempowered by social or material forces Collectively these chapters create a robust conception of resilience as a complex rhetorical process redeeming it from its popular association with individual heroism through an important focus on relationality community and an ethics of connection Resilience in this volume is a specifically rhetorical response to complicated forces in individual lives Through it Feminist Rhetorical Resilience widens the interpretive space within which rhetoricians can work The Problem with Reading Hannah Arendt in English Gerhard Brauer,2008 The author argues that Hannah Arendt s self translation of her book The Human Condition from excellent German into poor English significantly and unnecessarily compromised its readability Arendt could have asked for editorial assistance with her English but clearly chose not to do so On the basis of this premise the author goes on to suggest that there may be a larger as yet unremarked educational problem in the English speaking world translated philosophy texts are assigned for reading without making students aware of the impact that translation can have on coherence The na ve acceptance by English only readers of incoherent wording as though it were a mark of stylistic eccentricity or semantic innovation is defined as the translation induced lionization of text or TILT The problem is further exacerbated by an epidemic of infectious monolingualism in the English speaking world While a return to polyglotism in higher education once a highly valued skill directly relevant to the reading and understanding of philosophical and literary works would be ideal the teaching of translation theory plus slow reading is proposed as a more realistic and very feasible solution Genre Across The Curriculum Anne Herrington,Charles Moran,2005-02-24 Genre across the Curriculum will function as a good textbook one not for the student but for the teacher and one with an eye on the context of writing Here you will find models of practice descriptions written by teachers who have integrated the teaching of genre into their pedagogy in ways that both support and empower the student writer While authors here look at courses across disciplines and across a range of genres they are similar in presenting genre as situated within specific classrooms disciplines and institutions Their assignments embody the pedagogy of a particular teacher and student responses here embody students prior experiences with writing In each chapter the authors define a particular genre define the learning goals implicit in assigning that genre explain how they help their students work through the assignment and finally discuss how they evaluate the writing their students do in response to their teaching Victorians and Videogames Lin Young,Brooke Cameron,2025-10-30 Victorians and Videogames will examine how games interact with nineteenth century genres aesthetics and literary themes as a means of engaging critiquing or challenging their original contexts In essence this collection will consider the ways in which embodied user driven storytelling can impact new and challenging engagements with the nineteenth century in the contemporary world This book contains four categories that summarize major trends in nineteenth century oriented games The first section Ludic and Narrative Intertextuality examines games that directly adapt nineteenth century texts considering how ludic and literary elements work together to produce new commentary on the original texts Second Genre and Character re Creation will examine games that are more thematically engaged with the nineteenth century Third Navigation Colonization and Exploration examines the ways in which players move and interact with game environments and how game design itself can often evoke social systems or the politics of imperialist conquest Finally Science Systems and Technologies will examine how contemporary games engage with nineteenth century innovations both good and bad in science and technology In this way the sections begin with more explicit nineteenth century engagements and build to more theoretical and subtextual ones
