Dream, Death, and the Self J. J. Valberg, 2018-06-26 Might this be a dream In this book distinguished philosopher J J Valberg approaches the familiar question about dream and reality by seeking to identify its subject matter what is it that would be the dream if this were a dream It turns out to be a subject matter that contains the whole of the world space and time but which like consciousness for Sartre is nothing in itself This subject matter the personal horizon lies at the heart of the main topics the first person the self and the self in time explored at length in the book The personal horizon is Valberg contends the subject matter whose center each of us occupies and which for each of us ceases with death This ceasing to be presents itself solipsistically not just as the end of everything for me but as the end of everything absolutely Yet since it is the same for everyone this cannot be Death thus confronts us with an impossible fact something that cannot be but will be The puzzle about death is one of several extraphilosophical puzzles about the self that Valberg discusses puzzles that can trouble everyday consciousness without any contribution from philosophy Nor can philosophy resolve the puzzles Its task is to get to the bottom of them and in this respect to understand ourselves a task philosophy has always set itself

Discerning Life with Dreams: The Triadic Relationships Between Dreams, Discernment, and Spiritual Intelligence B. Anne Frey, 2008-01-23 This study explored the relationship between dreams discernment and spiritual intelligence It focused on the experience of people who use dreams to help them with spiritual discernment or decision making in a spiritual context A case study methodology included questionnaires personal dream records and interviews to understand the seven participants' experiences of exploring their dreams for guidance Participants were self-selected by answering an ad seeking people whose dreams had helped them to make a decision who journaled their dreams and who consider themselves to be spiritual Most participants reported being drawn to dreamwork by a significant life experience While participants shared different perceptions as to what discernment consists of each participant reported that dreams helped them to grow spiritually A number of outcomes were exemplified falling into two main groupings: a) the use of discernment in order to understand a dream whether or not they ended up reaching a resolution or making a decision about the dream and b) the use of dreams as part of a discernment process whether or not the dreams helped them to resolve their discernment issue or make a decision The intensity of emotion attached to an issue seemed for some to render it more difficult to arrive at particular decisions For others dreams seemed to ease the burden of discernment or decision making by raising their degree of confidence towards their resolution or decision Deepening appreciation of and growing desire for living spiritually and learning more about spirituality were indicators of a developing spiritual intelligence For most spiritual growth occurred through knowledge or learning gained from their dreams For some their belief about God s role in their life impacted their experience of the Divine in their dreams Finally the study showed that individuals are not always aware of what had helped them suggesting a subconscious process at work in both discernment and decision making The study affirmed a triadic link between dreams discernment and spiritual intelligence among people involved in spiritual dreamwork It demonstrated ways by which the discernment process can build confidence in people who are turning to their dreams for guidance in a spiritual context
