Sherman, Stacey Goguen, 2019-06-28 Prejudice influences people's thoughts and behaviors in many ways it can lead people to underestimate others credibility to read anger or hysteria into their words or to expect knowledge and truth to sound a certain way or to come from a certain type of person These biases and mistakes can have a big effect on everything from an institutional culture to an individual's self understanding These kinds of intellectual harms are known as epistemic injustice Most people are opposed to unfair prejudices at least in principle and no one wants to make avoidable mistakes But research in the social sciences reveals a disturbing truth Even people who intend to be fair minded and unprejudiced are influenced by unconscious biases and stereotypes We may sincerely want to be epistemically just but we frequently fail and simply thinking harder about it will not fix the problem The essays collected in this volume draw from cutting edge social science research and detailed case studies to suggest how we can better tackle our unconscious reactions and institutional biases to help ameliorate epistemic injustice The volume concludes with an afterward by Miranda Fricker who catalyzed recent scholarship on epistemic injustice reflecting on these new lines of research and potential future directions to explore Performative

violent self defense ethical In the history of colonialism racism sexism capitalism there has long been a dividing line between bodies worthy of defending and those who have been disarmed and rendered defenseless In 1685 for example France s infamous Code Noir forbade slaves from carrying weapons under penalty of the whip In nineteenth century Algeria the colonial state outlawed the use of arms by Algerians but granted French settlers the right to bear arms Today some lives are seen to be worth so little that Black teenagers can be shot in the back for appearing threatening while their killers are understood by the state to be justified That those subject to the most violence have been forcibly made defenseless raises for any movement of liberation the question of using violence in the interest of self defense Here philosopher Elsa Dorlin looks across the global history of the left from slave revolts to the knitting women of the French Revolution and British suffragists training in ju jitsu from the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising to the Black Panther Party from queer neighborhood patrols to Black Lives Matter to trace the politics philosophy and ethics of self defense In this history she finds a martial ethics of the self a practice in which violent self defense is the only means for the oppressed to ensure survival and to build a liveable future In this sparkling and provocative book drawing on theorists from Thomas Hobbes to Fred Hampton Frantz Fanon to Judith Butler Michel Foucault to June Jordan Dorlin has reworked the very idea of modern governance and political subjectivity Translated from the French by Kieran Aarons We're On: A June Jordan Reader Christoph Keller, Jan Heller

Feelin Bettina Judd, 2022-12-15 How creativity makes its way through feeling and what we can know and feel through the artistic work of Black women Feeling is not feelin As the poet artist and scholar Bettina Judd argues feelin in African American Vernacular English is how Black women artists approach and produce knowledge as sensation internal and complex entangled with pleasure pain anger and joy and manifesting artistic production itself as the meaning of the work Through interviews close readings and archival research Judd draws on the fields of affect studies and Black studies to analyze the creative processes and contributions of Black women from poet Lucille Clifton and musician Avery Sunshine to visual artists Betye Saar Joyce J Scott and Deana Lawson Feelin Creative Practice Pleasure and Black Feminist Thought makes a bold and vital intervention in critical theory's trend toward disembodiment of feeling as knowledge. Instead, Judd revitalizes current debates in Black studies about the concept of the human and about Black life by considering how discourses on emotion as they are explored by Black women artists offer alternatives to the concept of the human. Judd expands the notions of Black women's pleasure politics in Black feminist studies that include the erotic, the sexual, the painful, the joyful, the shameful, and the sensations and emotions that yet have no name. In its richly multidisciplinary approach, Feelin' calls for the development of research methods that acknowledge creative and emotionally rigorous work as productive by incorporating visual art, narrative, and poetry.

You Are Your Best Thing Tarana Burke, Brené Brown, 2021-04-27 NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER Tarana Burke and Dr. Brené Brown bring together a dynamic group of Black writers, organizers, artists, academics, and cultural figures to discuss the topics the two have dedicated their lives to understanding and teaching: vulnerability and shame resilience. Contributions by Kiese Laymon, Imani Perry, Laverne Cox, Jason Reynolds, Austin Channing Brown, and more. NAMED ONE OF THE BEST BOOKS OF THE YEAR BY MARIE CLAIRE AND BOOKRIOT. It started as a text between two friends: Tarana Burke, founder of the #MeToo Movement, texted researcher and writer Brené Brown to see if she was free to jump on a call. Brené assumed that Tarana wanted to talk about wallpaper. They had been trading home decorating inspiration boards in their last text conversation, so Brené started scrolling to find her latest Pinterest pictures when the phone rang. But it was immediately clear to Brené that the conversation wasn't going to be about wallpaper. Tarana's hello was serious, and she hesitated for a bit before saying, Brené, you know your work affected me so deeply, but as a Black woman, I've sometimes had to feel like I have to contort myself to fit into some of your words. The core of it rings so true for me, but the application has been harder. Brené replied, I'm so glad we're talking about this. It makes sense to me. Especially in terms of vulnerability. How do you take the armor off in a country where you're not physically or emotionally safe? Long pause. That's why I'm calling, said Tarana. What do you think about working together on a book about the Black experience with vulnerability and shame resilience? There was no hesitation. Burke and Brown are the perfect pair to usher in this stark, potent collection of essays on Black shame and healing. Along with the anthology's contributors, they create a space to recognize and process the trauma of white supremacy, a space to be vulnerable and affirm the fullness of Black love and Black life.

And what if disability justice and disabled wisdom are crucial to creating a future in which it's possible to survive fascism, climate change, and pandemics, and to bring about liberation? Building on the work of her game-changing book Care Work: Dreaming Disability Justice, Piepzna-Samarasinha writes about disability justice at the end of the world, documenting the many ways disabled people kept and are keeping each other and the rest of the world alive during Trump fascism and the COVID-19 pandemic.
