Rogers,2019-09-21 Demons are pouring into Los Angeles and Tori seems to be the only one who notices If she can manage to survive past her eighteenth birthday she hopes to graduate from her performing arts high school Unfortunately something wicked this way comes and the only thing standing between her and a blood sacrifice is a mysterious new classmate a classically trained actor from London who knows more about her than she does herself This version includes the prequel Apocrypha which introduces the character Jem the Demon Jem is dedicated to the diabolical through and through but is the demon losing her taste for leading the susceptible into sin One man thinks so and he uses her image in his supernatural game Is Jem destined to be anything more than a beautiful face on a playing card or will she ultimately have a greater role in the real life battle between good and evil Darkly humorous and witty Something Wicked in L A will keep you guessing until the end Go Home Terry Farish,Lochan Sharma,2024-08-06 In a world beset by anger and fear what does it mean to protect one s home and family Olive and Gabe her older brother s best friend are deeply in love They want nothing more than to make a home and family together especially after the overdose death of Olive s brother Chris It won t be easy Gabe works three jobs and Olive still needs to finish high school but their future together feels certain and right But when Samir Paudel moves into the house across the street Olive s and Gabe s lives are disrupted The Paudel house is overfull with family and friends and they play loud music at all hours Yet Olive is drawn to them particularly to Samir s little nephew Bhim and his grandfather Hajurba Yet Samir s very presence seems to awaken in Gabe an intense anger toward immigrants he believes are taking resources from White Americans resources that would have saved Chris and his own father who has lost his job and is now struggling with ill health and alcoholism When Olive realizes that Gabe and his family are the source of escalating aggressions toward the Paudels she no longer recognizes the loyal loving boy she fell in love with Key Text Features author s note alternating narratives points of view chapters First Impressions Martyn Jones, This book is an experiment Not with any expected outcome in mind but carried out in the spirit of all fabulous experiments paradigm shifts and unexpected breakthroughs this book has been created compiled and illustrated to force the flourishing of new relationships juxtapositions and ways of thinking about the sacred profane and just the everyday dull and boring Which leads to the preparation of the actual experiment itself I have taken the first chapter from fourteen titles I have written and commented on all of these texts in the spirit of gaining first impressions and then seeing if those first impressions are indeed valid In the process I have sliced diced prepped deconstructed reconstructed and randomised certainty at times with the intervention of serendipity faux intelligence and ingenious linguistic trickery This is my fourteenth book the most postmodern of all Which I now realise is either a testament to an enduring obsession or a worrying refusal to stop talking Probably both It s a book of mere bagatelles transformed into a work of pop art and a magical realism installation Over the past decade I ve written about the many masks worn by life data and its disciples from the subdued populism of Make Analytics Great Again to the cursed corporate courtship of laughing data com to the fire and fury polemic that was F ck Data Mesh I ve wandered through boardrooms battlefields and back end databases occasionally in heels frequently in jest and always in pursuit of something resembling truth or at least a punchline that sounded like one Bandoxa was my detour into technomythology a love letter to systems thinking with dragons Building Insight attempted to teach data storytelling to individuals who primarily sought better charts Celtic Domination was a historical data fantasy equal parts politics poetry and pivot tables Come in Pink That was me drunk on glamour and grief haunted by velvet ghosts and the soft power of scent Leadership reared its slippery head in Good Leader Bad Leader and its transactional cousin took a beating in Revealing Wealth and its proposals to crack down on tax evasion and illegal uses of tax havens The End of Honour explored ethical entropy in algorithmic ignorant and conceited empires The Philosopher s Dog asked whether AI can dream of virtue while chasing its own tail Head Over Heels was romantic but only if you think falling for a chatbot during a strategy offsite qualifies as romance Then there is The Good Data Bible part scripture part satire and First Impressions my rogue collection of literary mischief and misunderstood protagonists many of whom had nothing to do with data and everything to do with desire And now this book If the previous fourteen works were attempts to draw the map then this one is me standing at the edge of it laughing occasionally screaming and trying to figure out if the compass was upside down all along This is not a guidebook It s a field report from the middle of the data deluge A love letter a war cry a eulogy sometimes all in the same paragraph Reader welcome back Or welcome for the first time Either way hold tight The dashboards are haunted the metadata s missing Wales is still there and Karen still isn t picking up But more importantly the Celts are gathering and planning a better future for all of us The End Is Near version one So what are we really doing here We re kicking the tyres of my own back catalogue holding a mirror to the mirror and asking what exactly did I mean back then and what does it mean now that I m questioning it This isn t about closure or ego or retrospective neatness It s about the delightful instability of meaning First impressions are rarely accurate yet they re always revealing They say more about the observer than the observed So I ve decided to observe myself which is either an act of radical honesty or just a very elaborate cry for help Probably both The End Is Near version two In the end this book is not an ending at all It s a beginning disguised as a remix A Trojan horse filled with footnotes It s me turning to face the full clutter of my own thoughts books delusions obsessions and punchlines not to tidy them up but to let them run amok So let s open the box release the characters chase the logic and maybe if we re lucky stumble across something true Or at the very least something amusing which in this economy of nonsense is practically the same thing So what are we really doing here This book isn t an ending it s a chaotic remix of first impressions a self interrogation disguised as literary archaeology It s me holding a mirror to my own work Then another mirror to that not to tidy up the past but to unleash it to let the characters and contradictions run wild Part footnote stuffed Trojan horse part introspective stunt it s a dive into the delightful instability of meaning and if it doesn t uncover truth it might at least raise a laugh Which frankly is just as valuable these days Fourteen books and a galaxy of experiments
